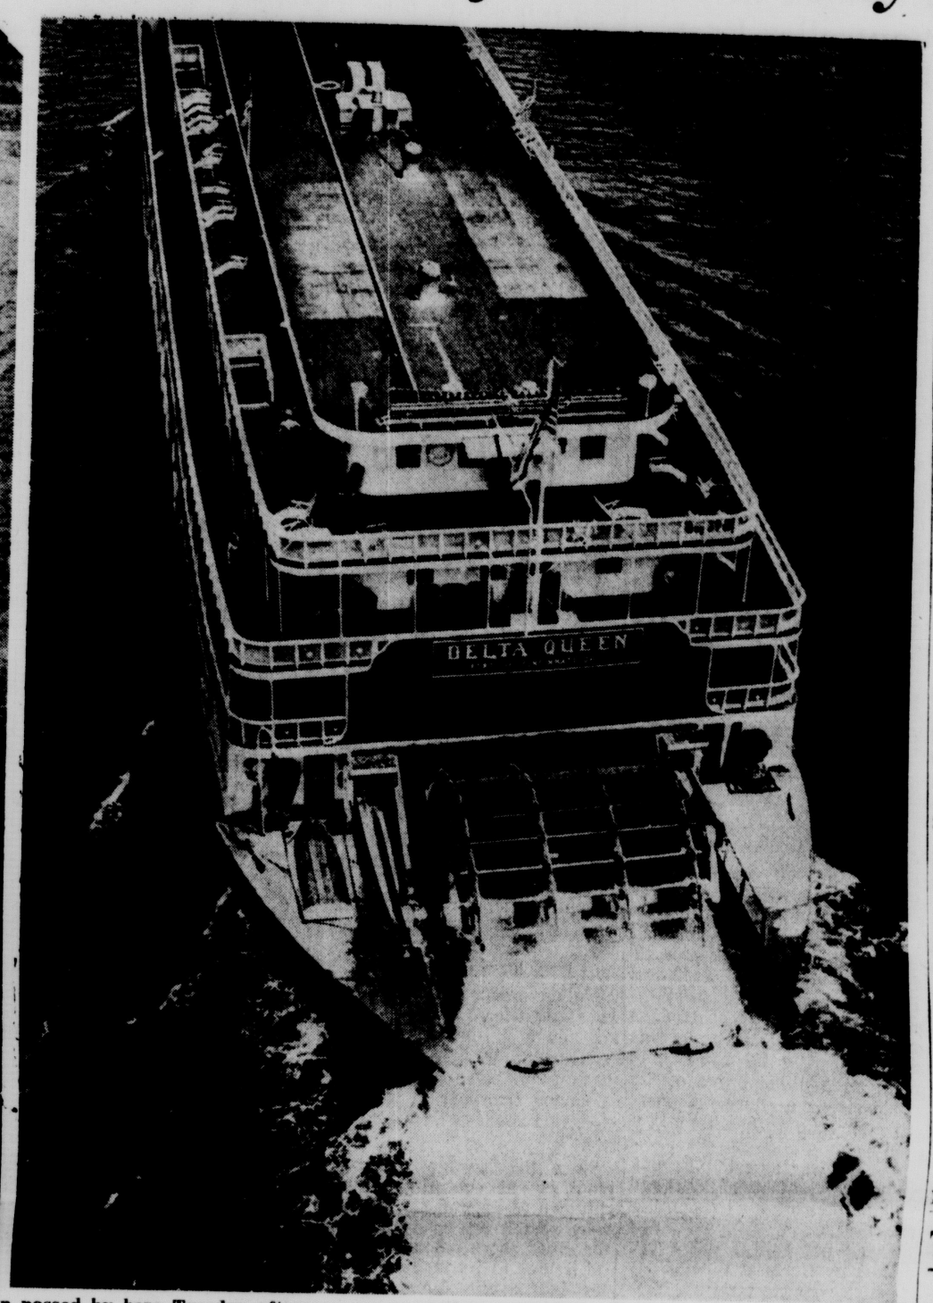
Bombers Continue Hitting North Viet

A 'Queen' Passes By In All Her Majestic Glory



WITH A NEW LEASE ON LIFE, the mighty Delta Queen passed by here Tuesday afternoon on an up-river excursion from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh. The above photos of her "majesty" were taken from the Shippingport Bridge by Bob Duffy, Review view photographer. The House at Washington Monday passed a bill to permit another two years operation of the giant paddlewheeler. The vessel, built in 1926, was not constructed of fire-retardant materials as required by present Coast Guard standards. Backers of the bill said two years will allow enough time for the Delta Queen's successor to be placed in operation. Without the bill, the Queen would have made her last run in November. The Senate earlier passed a similar bill.

Four Planes Are Downed In Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers pounded North Vietnam's southern panhandle Tuesday with the largest number of raids in two months while the big B52 strategic bombers kept up the heaviest saturation pounding given the demilitarized zone area in the war.

Allied ground troops also were busy below the northern frontier and reported they killed 155 of the enemy in clashes in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

2 Bombers Lost

Along with the record air activity, U.S. headquarters announced the loss of two Air Force fighter-bombers over North Vietnam and a light Army reconnaissance plane and a big Marine helicopter over South Vietnam.

One of the pilots shot down in North Vietnam, Lt. Col. Jack Modica, 44, of Birmingham, Ala., spent 23 hours in the jungle and was pulled to safety by a "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter as enemy troops were closing in on him.

The second fighter-bomber was shot down during the search for Modica and its pilot is missing. It was the 860th American plane that the U.S. command has reported lost in the North.

Helicopter Downed

The Viet Cong shot down the Marine helicopter, killing all four crewmen, and also killed all nine men in a Marine patrol the helicopter had set down to check out a mountain trail 24 miles northwest of Da Nang. It was the 778th U.S. helicopter lost in combat in South Vietnam.

The Army reconnaissance plane was shot down in the Mekong Delta 50 miles southwest of Saigon, but the pilot escaped with minor injuries, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. Air Force, Navy and Maine fighter-bombers flew 149 missions against North Vietnam Tuesday, the largest number of raids on the North since 155 were flown on April 22.

Enemy Supplies Hit

Like the big B52s dropping their bombs along the demilitarized zone and the southernmost part of North Vietnam, the smaller fighter-bombers hit at enemy supply routes and weapons positions in the continuing campaign to stem the flow of troops and war material into South Vietnam and to smash enemy artillery harassing allied combat bases just below the DMZ.

Pilots reported destroying or damaging 10 supply barges, six trucks and four railroad cars, cutting roads in 20 places, silencing seven antiaircraft sites, and badly damaging a surface-to-air missile and transporter 13 miles above the DMZ.

Talks Slated Tonight

No Change Seen In City's Walkout

Pickets continued to plod peacefully in front of City Hall and other municipal properties today while striking city employes awaited a new negotiating session with City Council tonight at 7.

Mayor George E. Willshaw said this morning there are no new developments in the walkout that was triggered Thursday by incinerator department employes and spread Friday to include all other members of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.

COUNCIL'S latest offer to the union was rejected by a narrow margin Monday night. Then arrangements were made to resume the bargaining tonight.

The walkout affects the incinerator, street, water and sewage departments, "Meter Maids" and a few miscellaneous workers such as clerical help. The union represents 50 of workers of the 100 who are not members of the fire and police departments.

The water system continued to operate normally today, manned by the union despite the strike. But the sewage treatment plant still was bypassing waste into the Ohio River for lack of a staff.

A SEWAGE department maintenance crew responded to an emergency call to work early this morning. The crew took its cleaning machine to Market St. just below 4th St. to remove an obstruction from a sewer. The action was taken to clear a stoppage that was blamed for water invading the basement of Golden Star Dairyland at 5th and Market Sts., officials said.

Ben Weber, acting city health commissioner, advised the mayor this morning that the Cincinnati headquarters of the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission has been advised the city is dumping raw sewage into the river because of the emergency.

ORSANCO, which administers the 20-year-old valley sanitation compact, advised Weber it does not contemplate any action immediately against the city or its employes. The agency said any direct action might come first from the Ohio Health Depart-

Jet Released From Island By Russians

Pilot Denies Charge He Was Flying Over Russian Territory

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. airliner carrying 214 Vietnam-bound troops that was held for two days by the Soviet Union flew to Tokyo today and the pilot denied that he violated Soviet air space.

"I did not stray over Russian territory," said Capt. Joseph Tosolini of Bethany, Conn. He said he had flown the same route from Tacoma, Wash. to Japan many times.

Tosolini said he argued with the Russians over the content of a letter that he signed indicating the plane's position. He said he was made to sign the letter as a condition for the release of the plane and its passengers.

Navigator Larry Guernon said his calculations showed the chartered four-engine jet was well outside the line defining Soviet air space off the Kurile Islands when it was intercepted by Russian MIGs Monday and forced to land on the island of Iturup north of Japan.

The Soviet Union said the plane violated Soviet air space and the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration concluded that Soviet air space was violated because the plane's crew made a navigational error. The State Department apologized, the Soviet government released the plane with unexpected swiftness.

Tosolini, flanked at a news conference by his 17-member crew that included nine stewardesses, said he signed a letter as a condition for his release.

Parade And Fireworks Planned For Midland 'Fourth' Festivities

Preparation of floats and completion of other details was under way today for the annual Fourth of July festivities at Midland Thursday.

Rock Springs Plans Fireworks, Concert

A fireworks display and band concert are scheduled at Rock Springs Park, Chester, Thursday.

The American Federation of Musicians Local 172 band will play from 2 to 4 p. m. The fireworks display will begin at 11 p.m.

Thousands are expected to converge on the borough to view the parade, attend concerts and other entertainment and watch the display of fireworks in the evening.

At least nine floats are registered for the procession in the morning along with seven high school bands — Midland, Western Beaver, South Side, Beaver Falls, Monaca, East Liverpool, and Wellsville along with Jimmy Sebastian and the Monaca Cornet Band.

The parade will also include five drill teams, several twirling groups, Boy and Girl Scout Troops, comic entries and decorated bicycles.

More than 70 units are expected.

Sixty new flags have been installed by the Chamber of Commerce.

INCLUDED IN the parade will be 12 convertibles carrying groups and dignitaries. Midland will honor Miss Kathy Sepos as "Miss Northwestern Pennsylvania" and "Miss Laurel Queen," and Miss Maxine Anderson as "Miss Congeniality" in the Miss Allegheny contest. Both girls, Lincoln High School graduates, will ride in convertibles.

Some of the parade participants will be Nanette McKeel of Monaca, "Our Little Miss 1968 of Pennsylvania" talent winner, a baton twirler, who will march in front of the Jimmy Sebastian cornet band; Beaver County Voiture 739-40 & 8 of Coraopolis; Midland Area Jaycees in a decorated car; the East Liverpool Shrine Band; John Williams of Smiths Ferry RD 1 on horseback; Navy Mothers Club of America 898 of Conway.

Mark Tiberio of Industry RD 1, and John Slappy Jr., Carl Tarver and Henry Palfrey of Midland on decorated bicycles; the Mohawk Eaglettes and Tennettes of New Castle, a drill team; the Ruthettes Twirling Corps of New Brighton; the East Liverpool Camp Fire Girls; the Chief Logan Raiders; the Royal Rangers Troop of the Assembly of God Church; Cub Scout Pack 78 of East Liverpool; Cub Scout Pack 470 of Industry; Brownie Troop 65 of Ohioville; Boy Scout Troop 470 of Industry; Boy Scout Troop 478 of Meadowbrook Estates; Cub Scout Pack 478 of Meadowbrook Estates.

The World War I Veterans; the Auxiliary of Midland American Legion Post 533, Midland Assembly of Rainbow Girls; the Midland Catholic Youth Organization; and many others.

Release Of Three Pilots Slated By North Vietnam

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam said today it is releasing three more U.S. pilots but did not give their names or say when and where they will be freed.

Once before the North Vietnamese released American fliers captured on missions over the North. It freed three on Feb. 16 as a gesture for the Vietnamese lunar new year. In exchange, the United States released three North Vietnamese sailors a month later.

Hanoi Radio's brief announcement today said: "Proceeding from the humanitarian and lenient policy of the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the general political department of the Vietnam People's Army has decided to release three U.S. pilots captured in North Vietnam."

There was no indication whether this was linked to the U.S.-North Vietnamese talks in Paris.

The United States had hoped that some general agreement on prisoners might come out of the Paris talks, but Hanoi has insisted that other issues can be dicussed only after the United States agrees to stop all bombing of North Vietnam.

One other brief announcement over Hanoi Radio today said Le Duc Tho, special adviser to Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator at Paris, arrived in Hanoi Tuesday. There was no elaboration.

USW Group Will Review Negotiations

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers has called a meeting of its 600-man Basic Steel Industry Conference for July 16.

The conference has the power to accept or reject a contract settlement, and the right to poll the rank and file on whether it wants to strike.

President I. W. Abel also announced Tuesday the union's Eleven Company Negotiating Advisory Committee will meet in Pittsburgh July 10.

Both will review the progress of labor contract negotiations.

Paul Hilbert, director of the union's 43,000-man District 15, predicted that 95 per cent of the 450,000 basic steel workers would vote in favor of a strike if given the chance.

Although there is no confirmation, a strike vote is expected to be held in late July, a few days before the basic steel contract expires Aug. 1.

Harry Gunhold of Balmain, New South Wales, Australia, and his wife, Freda, 32, were hurled from their motorscooter in the crash involving a car operated by Michael Roy Ward, 21, of 422 W. Washington St., Lisbon.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Ward was headed north in a 1968 coach and made a left turn from Route 30 onto Route 45 in the path of the southbound motorscooter.

The small bike slammed into the right side of the coach.

The woman was pronounced dead of severe head injuries and multiple lacerations.

Her husband suffered multiple bruises and abrasions and lacerations of the right knee.

Fire Sirens To Sound As Signal For Curfew

Fire sirens downtown and in East End will be sounded each night at 10, Sunday through Thursday, to signal the curfew for youngsters in East Liverpool 16 and under.

Fire Chief Alfred VanDyne agreed to sound the sirens at the request of juvenile officials. The sirens are on the Central Station and the East End Station on Pennsylvania Ave.

Youngsters 16 and under are permitted on the streets until 11 on Friday and Saturday nights. The curfew for those between 16 and 18 is an hour later in each instance.

Controlled Burning Permitted

Sanitation Hints Offered During Strike Emergency

Municipal officials issued a series of tips for strike-affected East Liverpool households Tuesday afternoon during a conference in Mayor George E. Willshaw's office, citing particularly steps to control rats and other pests in accumulated garbage and the fact that ordinances allow controlled burning of waste paper and cardboard.

The suggestions were issued to help alleviate a growing sanitation problem growing out of a strike of incinerator department trash and garbage crews. Street, water and sewage plant workers also are on strike, although the water plant has continued to operate with union employes.

THE MEETING brought together the mayor, Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Fire Chief Alfred VanDyne, Incinerator Supt. John Melvin and Ben Weber, acting health commissioner.

VanDyne said ordinances allow householders to burn waste paper and cardboard if they use approved devices. The approved devices are made of galvanized metal, about the size of a garbage can, and perforated with holes to allow ventilation, he said. VanDyne emphasized that burning cannot be permitted on a blacktop street, as it would damage the surface. He also warned that no garbage can be burned.

Weber said housewives can help control odors, rats, flies and other pests by scrubbing the interior of their garbage cans with a strong solution of hot, soapy water. Two or three mothballs placed inside each

Kershner Given Controller Post By Crucible Steel

The Crucible Steel Corp.'s Midland Division has named Sol Kershner to the position of vice president and controller.

Kershner was previously at Crucible's corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh where he was manager of financial controls.

Before joining Crucible, Kershner spent 11 years with the American Bridge division of the U.S. Steel Corp., and earlier was assistant to the president of the Everlast Pen Corp. in New York.

A native of Brooklyn, Kershner earned his B.S. degree in accounting and his J.D. degree in law from New York University. He also attended the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Business Administration. He is a member of the New York Bar Association and the New York University Law Review Alumni Association.

Fine Of $250 Decreed In Drunk Driving Case

Charles Weyand, 25, of Dodge St. was fined $250 and costs and given a year's suspension of his operator's permit Tuesday after Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff convicted him in a lengthy hearing on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Weyand also was given a 10-day suspended jail sentence. The judge commented that Weyand already had spent 12 days in jail awaiting trial, as he was unable to post bond. He was given an additional fine of $10 and costs on a charge of operating an auto with a faulty muffler.

Weyand was arrested June 19 at 10:17 p.m. at E. 6th and Walnut Sts. by Patrolman Charles Coen. Weyand, who pleaded not guilty, was represented by Bernard Fineman.

Cutting Torch Stolen In Entry At Hall China

An acetylene cutting and burning torch and related equipment were stolen in a weekend burglary at the Hall China Co., the firm advised police Tuesday.

The equipment was taken from a maintenance shop in the northeast end of the plant, but no sign of forcible entry was discovered, police said. The theft apparently took place over the weekend and some of the equipment was missed Monday, but the formal report was not filed until yesterday.

The loss included a welding torch worth $25.20, a cutting attachment valued at $32.50, various other tips for the torch, a set of twin gauges, 50 feet of twin hose and an acetylene tank.

County's New 4-H Agent Has 'Family' Of 1,250

LISBON — Gordon McDonald of Chardon, 21 and single, has a family of 1,250 boys and girls in Columbiana County 4-H clubs.

The new 4-H agent in the county extension office here, Gordon is a June graduate of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University, where he majored in agricultural economics.

He began work June 16, filling a position vacant since Robert Lewis left last September to take graduate work at North Carolina State University, Raleigh.

McDonald is a son of Jack and Vivian McDonald. His father is manager of the Chardon Savings Bank's West Geauga branch at Chesterland. Mrs. McDonald, a graduate of OSU, teaches vocational home economics at Chardon High School. The family resides on a 100-acre farm on Auburn Rd. and raises polled Hereford breeding stock.

Another son, Gary, is freshman in the College of Agriculture at OSU, and two daughters, Paula and Pam, are students in Chardon High School.

The new agent was employed last summer as a 4-H assistant in the Geauga County extension office at Burton. His assistant in the same role here is Tom Mollenkopf of East Palestine RD 1, who will be a senior in agriculture next fall at Ohio State.

The McDonalds attend Pilgrim Christian Church in Chardon, where the Rev. Fred Zacharias, formerly of Wellsville, is pastor.

Because of a continuing accumulation of cardboard containers and other packing materials in retail establishments, merchants should be doubly careful in their fire precautions, Van Dyne said. Careless smoking habits could touch off a serious fire, he warned.

Melvin warned against discarding garbage in the curbside containers in the business district used for litter. Weber warned residents against promiscuous dumping of garbage alongside roads or in vacant lots.

Since the sewage treatment plant is not operating, Weber obtained 25 printed signs which were posted late Tuesday along the river shore below the Newell Bridge to warn that the water is "unsafe for recreation purposes," including swimming and water skiing. He said the placards were posted at the suggestion of the Ohio Health Department because raw sewage is being emptied into the river.

The signs were posted on the Ohio side as far downstream as Waterford Park race track.

MELVIN reminded that the sanitary landfill dump in Madison Township still is closed. The County Health Department ordered the site shut down Monday afternoon because there was no bulldozer operator to cover the refuse daily, as state law requires.

The day after the walkout is ended, trash trucks will resume their regular schedules for that day, but will not attempt to backtrack, Melvin said. Householders should not place trash and garbage at the curb line for collection until the strike is settled, he added. Trash placed along the sidewalk is more likely to be scattered by youngsters and animals, he said.

Titled Vehicles Hit 638 In June

LISBON — Columbiana County titled 638 new vehicles worth $2,048,560 in June, according to the monthly report of Clerk of Courts Carl L. Stacey. He said 675 new vehicles were titled in May this year and 610 in June a year ago.

The title department last month issued 4,322 auto titles, 67 duplicate titles, 1,006 memorandums, eight duplicate memorandums, 1,521 notations of liens, 1,228 cancellations of liens and 1,361 acknowledgments.

Seventy - seven civil cases were filed in Common Pleas Court last month, compared with 112 in June last year.

Stacey said his office paid $11,452 to the county treasurer last month from fees collected in Common Pleas Court and the Car Title Department.

The clerk's office also paid the state treasurer $17,742 from the collection of sales and use tax, $114,180 from the collection of the dealer's tax, $2,221 for car title fees and $962 for inspection certificates.

Election Board Grants Ballot, Poll Book Pact

The Columbiana County Election Board, at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, awarded the Keystone Printing Co. of St. Clair Ave. a $172.50 contract to furnish ballots for a special election in the Beaver Local School District Sept. 10 on a $485,000 bond issue.

Keystone was the lone bidder on the ballots. The Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus was given a contract to furnish poll books at $18.50 per precinct. It was the lone bidder on the poll books.

The Election Board also adopted a resolution providing that full six-member precinct staffs will be used in all special elections in the future. The East Liverpool Board of Education passed a resolution Monday night for a special election on three levies Sept. 17, but it has not been filed with the Election Board.

2 Drivers Uninjured In Mishap At Fallston

Two drivers escaped injury in a collision on Route 51 at Beaver St. in Fallston Tuesday afternoon at 4:30, the Pennsylvania State Police at Chippewa reported.

Wayne Wesley McCauley, 41, of 244 E. North Ave., East Palestine, was headed north on Route 51 when a car operated by Charles Firestone, 44, of Connellsville pulled from Beaver St. and collided with McCauley's 1964 sedan.

There was about $500 damage to each of the autos, officers said.

DR. RONALD WEBER

Weber Selected New President At Mount Union

ALLIANCE, Ohio — Dr. Ronald G. Weber has been named the seventh president in the 122-year history of Mt. Union College.

Election of the 1938 Mt. Union graduate was by the Board of Trustees, acting upon the recommendation of a special presidential nominating committee.

Mt. Union vice president and secretary since 1950, Dr. Weber has been acting president since Oct. 14, 1967, when President Carl C. Bracy resigned after 13 years of leadership.

Parade

Wives of Beaver County, (wives of servicemen in Vietnam) and others.

Additional float sponsors will include the Road Roamers of East Liverpool and the Central United Methodist Church of Beaver Falls.

Atty. Robert J. Masters is chairman of the judges who are being selected from each organization entering a general class float.

Three junior drill teams—the Cleveland Caballeros, the Butler Vagabonds and the Monongahela Valley Newtones — will meet in competition, while two senior teams — the Cranberry Passajeros and the Pittsburgh Rockets — will give exhibitions.

The parade, the afternoon variety show and the drum and bugle corps exhibit and competition at night will be announced for the 11th year by Chuck Wilson of radio station WBVP of Beaver Falls.

The afternoon show will feature a concert by the Lincoln High School band at 12:45 p.m.; a talent show and rock and roll concert at 1:45 p.m.; and a concert by Jimmy Sebastian and the Monaca Cornet Band at 4 p. m.

Three rock and roll groups scheduled to perform are "The Sensations," "The Establishment," and "The Exiles." The Tuseks of West Point, outstanding acrobatic troupe of stage and television, will perform at the band shell during the afternoon talent show.

THE ANNUAL Midland-East Liverpool Little League baseball game will be held. The Firemen's Carnival will open at 1 p. m. Thursday and will continue through the balance of the day. There will be rides for all ages.

Food can be obtained throughout the day at one of many concession stands in Lincoln Park, at the Carnival and at the stadium at night. Several restaurants in Midland have stocked up on supplies for the crowds that will line Midland Avenue beginning early on Thursday.

All floats are to arrive at the western end of Midland Ave. by 9 a. m. All other parade participants must be there at 9:30 a. m. to be lined up by committee members. Judges will pre - judge floats at 9 a.m. with the final judging to take place at the judges' stand in Lincoln Park in front of the First Presbyterian Church. Over $1,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Theme of the 1968 celebration is "Freedom for All—Freedom Forever," as suggested by Miss Paula Bernardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bernardi of 616 Penn Ave., Midland, who will be honorary parade marshal and will ride in a convertible with Rep. Frank Clark and with Mayor Eli G. Corak, general chairman of the Midland July Fourth celebration.

POLICE CHIEF Vincent D'Itri has announced that parking will be prohibited on the parade route from midnight tonight. Streets will be swept and marked for the parade.

The parade route includes Midland Ave. from 1st St. to 11th St., 11th St., Lincoln Park area and down 9th St. to Midland Ave.

Parking also will be prohibited on Woodland Alley and Railroad Lane from 1st St. to 12th St. to allow re-routing of Midland Ave. traffic. Residents who normally park their cars on these routes may use the Crucible Parking lots in town, police said.

The day's events will begin at 9 a.m. with flagraising at Lincoln High School by American Legion Posts 481 and 533. An aerial bomb at 10:30 a. m. will signal the start of the parade. Capt. John H. Lutton, chief of Midland Division of Crucible Plant Protection, said aerial bombs will mark each hour during the day's schedule.

ROBERT DICK, retiring commander of American Legion Post 481 will be parade marshal.

A revised budget of $7,501 was approved by the fete committee and its final meeting Friday at noon. To date, donations total about $8,000, allowing a $499 surplus for emergencies.

This year's budget is some $2,000 less than the 1967 budget because of a cut in donations in some areas. However, under the supervision of Charles P. Henderson, program director, the day's events have been trimmed to remain within the budget and yet provide entertainment for the thousands who will flock to Midland for the annual patriotic celebration.

The Star-Spangled Banner

Our national anthem was written by Francis Scott Key in 1814. He had witnessed the bombardment of Fort McHenry throughout the night with anxiety and when he saw the American flag still flying over the fortress in the dawn, he expressed his feelings in stirring words that will live in American history.

Since the days of our struggle for freedom, "Old Glory" has been a symbol to Americans — a symbol of unity and independence. Let's keep the principles upon which this nation was founded before us all . . . by flying our flag proudly on the Fourth.

Three junior drill teams—the Cleveland Caballeros, the Butler Vagabonds and the Monongahela Valley Newtones — will meet in competition, while two senior teams — the Cranberry Passajeros and the Pittsburgh Rockets — will give exhibitions.

The parade, the afternoon variety show and the drum and bugle corps exhibit and competition at night will be announced for the 11th year by Chuck Wilson of radio station WBVP of Beaver Falls.

The afternoon show will feature a concert by the Lincoln High School band at 12:45 p.m.; a talent show and rock and roll concert at 1:45 p.m.; and a concert by Jimmy Sebastian and the Monaca Cornet Band at 4 p. m.

Three rock and roll groups scheduled to perform are "The Sensations," "The Establishment," and "The Exiles." The Tuseks of West Point, outstanding acrobatic troupe of stage and television, will perform at the band shell during the afternoon talent show.

THE ANNUAL Midland-East Liverpool Little League baseball game will be held. The Firemen's Carnival will open at 1 p. m. Thursday and will continue through the balance of the day. There will be rides for all ages.

Food can be obtained throughout the day at one of many concession stands in Lincoln Park, at the Carnival and at the stadium at night. Several restaurants in Midland have stocked up on supplies for the crowds that will line Midland Avenue beginning early on Thursday.

All floats are to arrive at the western end of Midland Ave. by 9 a. m. All other parade participants must be there at 9:30 a. m. to be lined up by committee members. Judges will pre - judge floats at 9 a.m. with the final judging to take place at the judges' stand in Lincoln Park in front of the First Presbyterian Church. Over $1,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Theme of the 1968 celebration is "Freedom for All—Freedom Forever," as suggested by Miss Paula Bernardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bernardi of 616 Penn Ave., Midland, who will be honorary parade marshal and will ride in a convertible with Rep. Frank Clark and with Mayor Eli G. Corak, general chairman of the Midland July Fourth celebration.

POLICE CHIEF Vincent D'Itri has announced that parking will be prohibited on the parade route from midnight tonight. Streets will be swept and marked for the parade.

The parade route includes Midland Ave. from 1st St. to 11th St., 11th St., Lincoln Park area and down 9th St. to Midland Ave.

Parking also will be prohibited on Woodland Alley and Railroad Lane from 1st St. to 12th St. to allow re-routing of Midland Ave. traffic. Residents who normally park their cars on these routes may use the Crucible Parking lots in town, police said.

The day's events will begin at 9 a.m. with flagraising at Lincoln High School by American Legion Posts 481 and 533. An aerial bomb at 10:30 a. m. will signal the start of the parade. Capt. John H. Lutton, chief of Midland Division of Crucible Plant Protection, said aerial bombs will mark each hour during the day's schedule.

ROBERT DICK, retiring commander of American Legion Post 481 will be parade marshal.

A revised budget of $7,501 was approved by the fete committee and its final meeting Friday at noon. To date, donations total about $8,000, allowing a $499 surplus for emergencies.

This year's budget is some $2,000 less than the 1967 budget because of a cut in donations in some areas. However, under the supervision of Charles P. Henderson, program director, the day's events have been trimmed to remain within the budget and yet provide entertainment for the thousands who will flock to Midland for the annual patriotic celebration.

Motorist And Boater Are Fined By Herron

NEW CUMBERLAND — An East Liverpool man was one of two fined by Squire John D. Herron Tuesday.

Glenn G. Beagle, 18, of 165 Fawcett St. was fined $35 and costs for speeding. He was arrested by the state police.

Ralph McGill, 55, of Steubenville was fined $20 and costs for not having a fire extinguisher on his boat. He was arrested by Carl Kirkland, conservation officer.

The famous Chisholm Trail for cattle drives began at Paris, Tex., and ended at Dodge City, Kan.

Burglar Gets $250 In Ware

Ware worth $250 to $300 was carried out of the Kass China Co. plant at 909 Vine St. in a burglary late Tuesday night or early this morning, John Kass, the owner, told police.

Police said the pottery was entered through a door on the north side of the building between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

The loss included:

108 ashtrays, a teapot, 12 mugs, a flower vase, 18 beer mugs, two tier trays, three flower vases, two baby plates, three cigarette boxes, 24 10-inch plates, 36 assorted vases, eight gold - colored dog figures and four 5-inch plates.

Meanwhile, Gary Sendling of Shadyside Ave. told police a vandal slashed the top of his 1964 model convertible Tuesday night or early today while the auto was parked on Virginia Ave.

Sendling said the damage occurred while he was working the 11-7 shift at the nearby American Vitrified Products Co. plant.

New Unit Serves Weirton Steel

WEIRTON — Commercial operation of its new continuous wide-slab casting machine has been accomplished. President George A. Stinson of the National Steel Corp. announced Tuesday.

Successful operation of the four-stand unit — first of its kind and size — began June 5. Since that time, start-up operations have brought all strands into production. All material cast has been and is being finished and shipped to customers.

"All of those responsible at the Weirton Steel Division are to be congratulated on bringing in this precedent-setting equipment," Stinson told John G. Redline, president of National's Weirton Steel Division.

Our national anthem was written by Francis Scott Key in 1814. He had witnessed the bombardment of Fort McHenry throughout the night with anxiety and when he saw the American flag still flying over the fortress in the dawn, he expressed his feelings in stirring words that will live in American history.

Since the days of our struggle for freedom, "Old Glory" has been a symbol to Americans — a symbol of unity and independence. Let's keep the principles upon which this nation was founded before us all . . . by flying our flag proudly on the Fourth.

Keeping Schools Updated

Residents of East Liverpool School district are faced anew with the realities of operating a modern education program — the need to provide the broadening scope of schooling to help students meet the demands of today's complex society.

Criticism has been leveled by some administrators and lay people alike for changes in the state minimum standards which require curriculum and staff additions without providing the means of financing them.

The authorities who have upgraded the education standards of Ohio have not done so with intention of embarrassing school boards or taxpayers; they have done it to insure students will get the kind of training which is vital in the late 20th Century.

Were it not for this prodding for self-improvement, some school districts would still be maintaining drafty one - room buildings with teachers who have but a year of college.

The move by the East Liverpool board of education to seek additional funds for making the required changes and to upgrade other parts of the school program is its only alternative to deciding the task is impossible and letting the schools close.

The taxpayers owe it to themselves and to the present and future generations of the community to support a necessary advance in the education process such as is proposed.

Hard To Beat

Crucible Steel Corp. is backing up its claim that competition is not only in the research, production and delivery systems of a steel manufacturer but in the market place itself.

Crucible's new practice of giving discounts on large stainless steel purchases is one way at meeting the foreign import problem.

Willingness of the specialty steel firm to pass on cost savings on large volume orders proves the previously vowed resolve to do battle with competitors by harder work, better management and new ideas. That's a hard combination to beat.

Senate Should Reconsider

The Senate's refusal to act on a House-approved bill to renew the Renegotiation Act could easily prove to be a costly mistake.

When authorization for the act ended at midnight June 30, the American public lost the only independent government agency empowered to recover excess profits on defense and space contracts.

Failure to extend the Renegotiation Act means profits realized by contractors from space and defense contracts will no longer be subject to renegotiation if found to be excessive.

THE RENEGOTIATING BOARD, in its 17-year history, has recovered $952 million—an average of $56 million per year—in excess profits from contractors.

The $952 million figure is a matter of record. Another figure tossed out by the board is not a matter of record but is highly interesting. The board claims its investigations have caused contractors to voluntarily return $1.3 billion in excessive payments.

It is easy to believe that contractors would wish to return excessive profits voluntarily rather than being forced into it by the harsh light of publicity.

There have been too many cases of contractors taking the federal government for a ride on defense and space contracts, to give the conivers a free hand in hoodwinking the government and the public.

If the Senate wishes to change the operating precedure of the board or change its makeup in some manner, that is one thing, but to let it die and give the green light to companies seeking to make a fast buck is an entirely different matter.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., a supporter of the Renegotiation Board estimates the organization returns $18 to the U.S. Treasury for every dollar it spends.

There are too many do-nothing, free-ride boards and committees in Washington that can stand attention for the Senate to lower the boom on the Renegotiation Board.

The taxpayer may not know much about government contract-letting and maneuvering, but he has enough common sense to know the value of a review board in protecting the tax dollar involved in federal dealings.

OVERCHARGING, padding contracts and a host of other shenanigans have occurred regularly even with the Renegotiating Board in existence. What will the situation be without the board

The door has not been locked on the matter. The Senate still can untable the measure, enact it retroactively and keep the Renegotiation Board functioning properly.

We encourage the Senate to do just that.

Remember The Pueblo

The next march on Washington may be of a different nature than the last one.

If it should occur, it might well be made by the relatives and friends of the sailors who were taken prisoner by the North Koreans — the crew of the USS Pueblo.

A Columbus, Ohio mother, whose son was a member of the crew when it was seized, is spearheading a campaign she hopes will result in the freeing of the American sailors. She says this might include a trip to Washington.

As a part of the campapgn, more than 3,200 bumper stickers have been distributed. Their message is: "Remember the Pueblo." The idea is to remind the people that the ship still is held by North Korea.

Individuals in other sections of the nation also are organizing activities to keep the Pueblo incident alive. A Chattanooga, Tenn., American Legion post is flying its flag at half-staff in memory of the captured crew of the intelligence ship.

Meanwhile, diplomatic efforts apparently are being made to obtain the freedom of the men. It would appear, however, that these efforts have little chance of success until the North Koreans decide they can get no more value from the incident.

Loss of face is extremely important to the Oriental and the United States is losing face every day that tiny North Korea is able, with impunity, to hold the Pueblo and its crew, and laugh in Uncle Sam's face.

Letter To The Editor

Gun Curbs Criticized

The fee attached to the proposed gun laws would indicate a lucrative source of revenue to the politicians, and appears to be the primary reason for their hasty actions.

If they are sincere in their efforts, they should make it a cost - free proposal.

Few real sportsmen would object to the registration of guns or gunners, but to be, in effect, fined, fingerprinted and told to furnish a mug shot would seem to associate sportsmen with criminals.

Once the laws are passed with a nominal fee, they can, and probably would, be increased every time the permit was to be renewed.

If the idea is eventually legislate guns out of the American heritage — and who can say that is not the purpose — then our boys who grow up without the benefit of early training with guns and their proper use will be severely handicapped when called upon for military service.

It would be as logical to ask our boys in Vietnam not to use guns because they are dangerous. If we are going to police the world, which would be handled by the United Nations, then it would appear that the boys doing the fighting should not be handicapped by sentimental gun laws.

Romney Hit At Power Bloc

George Romney may have stepped away from the presidential race but not from its issues.

Certainly one of these issues is labor's growing influence and its relations with American industry.

Victor Riesel

Certainly now, unhampered by the pressures of campaigning and free of the squeeze of interminable travel and public statements, George Romney can stand off and take a close look at the struggles on the labor front.

His vantage point, the Executive Mansion in Lansing, capital of one of the most industrialized states in this country, is particularly strategic.

I asked him to do an in-depth analysis of the labor scene. Here it is, written specially for this column:

By George Romney, Governor of Michigan.

LANSING — Because this is a national election year, we, the people, have reason to expect something more than "business as usual" from our governmental and political establishments.

Hopefully, at this extremely critical juncture in our nation's history, the year 1968 and its many months of campaigning will bring forth overdue commitments to action in a multitude of problem areas. We have far too many major national concerns for which answers are not being provided either by those in positions of public responsibility or those who are seeking such positions.

Our nation's economy is a primary example. In nearly every aspect of economic decision making, we are drifting aimlessly in increasingly troubled waters while those responsible for the ship of state offer only token answers.

One of the many economic areas drastically needing revision and modernization is that of the labor-management dispute which results in a strike or shutdown of emergency proportions.

OUR EXISTING LABOR laws encourage industry-wide and nationwide monopolies in collective bargaining. They foster economic power groups that fight with one another merely to reap greater economic benefits for themselves.

Too often the result is a national emergency shutdown that invites government intervention and decision making.

The inherent strength of our nation's economic approach has been competition in the market place designed to share progress with consumers and put them in control. But monopoly at the negotiating table strips away the consumer's control, denies him participation in economic progress, and saddles him in the end result with inflation and increasing government control.

Our nation's leadership has not faced up to this growing national problem. Along with failure to take timely tax and spending action, this failure has distorted our economy.

The poor are made poorer.

Public employes strike as their compensation falls further behind the highly organized.

Farm income declines in relationship to the cost of farming and living.

Exports decline, imports increase and the balance of payments deficit continues.

Confidence in the dollar declines and threatens the economic future of the nation and the world.

In 1965 the administration promised to recommend legislation to deal with national emergency strikes stemming from the abuses of this monopoly collective bargaining power. But nothing was done.

Then, after the disastrous New York transit strike, the promise was repeated, but again no action resulted.

Then came crisis after crisis in monopoly collective bargaining — airlines, steel, rubber, railroads, trucking, copper. And still there was no program.

The usual reaction has been to let a national emergency labor dispute get worse and worse, and then step in to dictate a settlement which is too often one-sided and inflationary. That's bad enough, because each time such an approach is taken, the American economy loses some of its freedom, and the inflationary spiral wings even higher.

IN THE RAIL STRIKE, the approach went beyond White House intervention and arm twisting. The White House had to use Congress as a collective bargaining tool on a day-to-day basis, finally securing a settlement only by special act of our nation's highest legislative body authorizing compulsory arbitration.

Today another deficiency in the field of emergency shut down has come to the fore — the inability to deal with strikes which may not produce a national emergency but do create a state or local emergency.

An immediate example is the strike which has shut down operation of Detroit's two major newspapers for over six months. The result has been a vast gap in essential communications in one of our nation's largest metropolitan centers.

Recognizing that a free society cannot function effectively without a free press, this prolonged shutdown has created a state emergency more serious to Michigan than the impact of many more remote national emergency strikes.

But because some parties to such a dispute are technically involved in interstate commerce, it has been opinioned that the National Labor Relations Act preempts responsibility for dealing with such disputes.

Thus we have a new dilemma in emergency strikes — a situation where the federal authority isn't used because a national emergency is not involved, and where state officials can't move because national laws have preempted the field.

Certainly it's complicated. Yet the very complication of the situation simply helps point up another grave deficiency in our national labor laws as they relate to labor-management disputes vitally affecting the public interest.

THE ANSWER in the case of such state and local emergencies may be revision of Taft-Hartley to permit the public interest to be asserted where the responsibility exists — at the state level. Such Congressional action will be sought.

But the long-range answer to labor emergencies will require courageous action of a much broader nature — action which will result only when people in public places quit worrying about the wishes of the excessively powerful organized economic groups and concern themselves with the wishes of all the people as consumers.

There are only two ways to discipline an economy — competition and absolute authority. And in our nation absolute authority, when it comes, will always come from government.

The real answer is to correct the basic monopolistic flaw in our labor laws, restore and strengthen the competitive principle, and then rely primarily on competitive discipline. This will prevent many emergency strikes from occurring in the first place.

We must also restore sanity to the fiscal and monetary policies of the federal government.

We must encourage greater management and labor teamwork for the chief benefit of consumers.

And we must put the consumer back in the economic driver's seat. For to have a dynamic, poverty-solving, high-employment sound economy, the consumers must be the principal ones to benefit from labor-management teamwork in achieving economic improvement.

Odd Facts

Alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant as some people suppose. It acts on the control centers of the brain to depress them, and this allows a person to exhibit certain kinds of behavior and attitudes that are normally repressed.

Egypt is one of the oldest nations in the world, its historical record dating back at least 5,000 years. The country already had an advanced civilization when the earliest native dynasty united the kingdoms of Upper and Lower Egypt about 3200 B.C.

Although George Washington laid the cornerstone of the White House in Washington, D.C., he was the only U.S. president who never lived there.

The introduction of the practice of smoking is ascribed to Sir Walter Raleigh. His last wish before going to the scaffold in 1613 was to smoke a pipe.

RAYMOND MOLEY

McCarthy Move

Two months ago, in a column commenting upon Sen. Eugene McCarthy's proposal that, before negotiating with Hanoi, the United States should agree to a coalition with the Communists in South Vietnam, I said:

"That sort of talk by a presidential candidate announces to the world, and especially to Hanoi, that President Johnson's position does not represent the opinion of the nation.

"It is also a violation of a rule of political campaigning, a rule more often invoked than not, that when the president is concerned in delicate negotiations the opposition should maintain a discreet silence."

I noted at that time that Richard Nixon had observed this rule not only in the past but in the present contacts between the Johnson administration and Hanoi.

FOLLOWING THAT, I cited in direct quotations the agreements to which the United States subscribed, along with other nations involved in the war, earlier this year in New Zealand. Those agreements specifically ruled out any coalition government in South Vietnam.

McCarthy has now compounded his offense by declaring that he intends to go to Paris and actually talk with the representatives from Hanoi who are there in conference with the accredited representatives of the U.S. government.

He is quoted as saying in a television interview June 23: "I'd like to talk to them. It might be a good thing for me, as a presidential candidate, to speak directly to them. I would like to find out what the possibilities for some kind of a settlement or accommodation are."

McCarthy has been represented by his supporters as an individual who rises above the normal range of American politicians because he is possessed of an unusually fine education and, for a time before entering public life, served as a professor in two institutions of learning.

Somewhere, either in his academic work or during his service in Congress, he must have heard of a man named George Logan.

Logan was a resident of Philadelphia and a physician. In 1798, when the United States was on the verge of declaring war against France, Logan departed for France with the idea that he might heal the breach between the two countries. He did not take the trouble to obtain a passport from the State Department.

He was cordially received by that old master of dubious diplomacy, Talleyrand, and later returned to the United States. He was, of course, coldly received by ex-President Washington and President Adams.

Congress, however, taking note of the grave situation which is created when private citizens take into their hands negotiations with foreign powers, passed what has always been known as the "Logan Act."

This law, which is still on the books, makes it a high misdemeanor for a private citizen to interfere in a controversy between the United States and a foreign country. It has been repeatedly cited as a warning to individuals who have visited North Vietnam in the interest of what they call "peace," but has never been enforced.

In 1953, Rep. Alvin O'Konski was accused of violating this law because he wrote to President Rhee of South Korea, asking him to free some anti-Communist prisoners of war.

However, the O'Konski indiscretion was not nearly as serious as this proposal by McCarthy.

FOR O'KONSKI addressed his letter to the president of a country with which we were allied and his communication did not involve an issue which was under negotiation.

It is quite obvious that our government will not invoke the Logan Act if McCarthy carries out his plan. The President is too wise to provide his critic with a martyr's halo.

But this harebrained proposal should go far to convince the more adult supporters of McCarthy that they are not dealing merely with a shallow and overambitious but sincere friend of peace. Instead, their hero reveals himself now as a desperate and reckless adventurer who is willing to place politics over the vital interests of his own country.

Through The Years

TWENTY YEARS AGO — The 29th annual reunion of the Henry-Williams families was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Henry near Wellsville.

Robert Mackey was elected president of the Epworth League Society of the Anderson Methodist Episcopal Church.

Bernadine Williamson of East Liverpool and Joseph Daw of Wellsville received recognition for academic achievement at Muskingum College.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — William Davis Jr. of Thompson Ave. completed his sophomore year at the Illinois College of Chiropody in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd and son Wallace of Wellsville talked to another son, Richard Lloyd, in Panama through an amateur radio hookup.

TEN YEARS AGO—Burton Ward, mayor, a new city clerk and two new councilmen began their duties at Chester.

East Liverpool's Pvt. Eddy VFW drill team won its fourth consecutive state championship at Cincinnati.

Paul Dustman of 6th St., Wellsville, was placed on the dean's list at Mt. Union College, Alliance.

There have been too many cases of contractors taking the federal government for a ride on defense and space contracts, to give the conn ivers a free hand in hoodwinking the government and the public.

If the Senate wishes to change the operating precedure of the board or change its makeup in some manner, that is one thing, but to let it die and give the green light to companies seeking to make a fast buck is an entirely different matter.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., a supporter of the Renegotiation Board estimates the organization returns $18 to the U.S. Treasury for every dollar it spends.

There are too many do-nothing, free-ride boards and committees in Washington that can stand attention for the Senate to lower the boom on the Renegotiation Board.

The taxpayer may not know much about government contract-letting and maneuvering, but he has enough common sense to know the value of a review board in protecting the tax dollar involved in federal dealings.

OVERCHARGING, padding contracts and a host of other shenanigans have occurred regularly even with the Renegotiating Board in existence. What will the situation be without the board

The door has not been locked on the matter. The Senate still can untable the measure, enact it retroactively and keep the Renegotiation Board functioning properly.

We encourage the Senate to do just that.

Remember The Pueblo

The next march on Washington may be of a different nature than the last one.

If it should occur, it might well be made by the relatives and friends of the sailors who were taken prisoner by the North Koreans — the crew of the USS Pueblo.

A Columbus, Ohio mother, whose son was a member of the crew when it was seized, is spearheading a campaign she hopes will result in the freeing of the American sailors. She says this might include a trip to Washington.

As a part of the campapgn, more than 3,200 bumper stickers have been distributed. Their message is: "Remember the Pueblo." The idea is to remind the people that the ship still is held by North Korea.

Individuals in other sections of the nation also are organizing activities to keep the Pueblo incident alive. A Chattanooga, Tenn., American Legion post is flying its flag at half-staff in memory of the captured crew of the intelligence ship.

Meanwhile, diplomatic efforts apparently are being made to obtain the freedom of the men. It would appear, however, that these efforts have little chance of success until the North Koreans decide they can get no more value from the incident.

Loss of face is extremely important to the Oriental and the United States is losing face every day that tiny North Korea is able, with impunity, to hold the Pueblo and its crew, and laugh in Uncle Sam's face.

Letter To The Editor

Gun Curbs Criticized

The fee attached to the proposed gun laws would indicate a lucrative source of revenue to the politicians, and appears to be the primary reason for their hasty actions.

If they are sincere in their efforts, they should make it a cost - free proposal.

Few real sportsmen would object to the registration of guns or gunners, but to be, in effect, fined, fingerprinted and told to furnish a mug shot would seem to associate sportsmen with criminals.

Once the laws are passed with a nominal fee, they can, and probably would, be increased every time the permit was to be renewed.

If the idea is eventually legislate guns out of the American heritage — and who can say that is not the purpose — then our boys who grow up without the benefit of early training with guns and their proper use will be severely handicapped when called upon for military service.

It would be as logical to ask our boys in Vietnam not to use guns because they are dangerous. If we are going to police the world, which would be handled by the United Nations, then it would appear that the boys doing the fighting should not be handicapped by sentimental gun laws.

VICTOR RIESEL

Romney Hit At Power Bloc

George Romney may have stepped away from the presidential race but not from its issues.

Certainly one of these issues is labor's growing influence and its relations with American industry.

Victor Riesel

Certainly now, unhampered by the pressures of campaigning and free of the squeeze of interminable travel and public statements, George Romney can stand off and take a close look at the struggles on the labor front.

His vantage point, the Executive Mansion in Lansing, capital of one of the most industrialized states in this country, is particularly strategic.

I asked him to do an in-depth analysis of the labor scene. Here it is, written specially for this column:

By George Romney, Governor of Michigan.

LANSING — Because this is a national election year, we, the people, have reason to expect something more than "business as usual" from our governmental and political establishments.

Hopefully, at this extremely critical juncture in our nation's history, the year 1968 and its many months of campaigning will bring forth overdue commitments to action in a multitude of problem areas. We have far too many major national concerns for which answers are not being provided either by those in positions of public responsibility or those who are seeking such positions.

Our nation's economy is a primary example. In nearly every aspect of economic decision making, we are drifting aimlessly in increasingly troubled waters while those responsible for the ship of state offer only token answers.

One of the many economic areas drastically needing revision and modernization is that of the labor-management dispute which results in a strike or shutdown of emergency proportions.

OUR EXISTING LABOR laws encourage industry-wide and nationwide monopolies in collective bargaining. They foster economic power groups that fight with one another merely to reap greater economic benefits for themselves.

Too often the result is a national emergency shutdown that invites government intervention and decision making.

The inherent strength of our nation's economic approach has been competition in the market place designed to share progress with consumers and put them in control. But monopoly at the negotiating table strips away the consumer's control, denies him participation in economic progress, and saddles him in the end result with inflation and increasing government control.

Our nation's leadership has not faced up to this growing national problem. Along with failure to take timely tax and spending action, this failure has distorted our economy.

The poor are made poorer.

Public employes strike as their compensation falls further behind the highly organized.

Farm income declines in relationship to the cost of farming and living.

Exports decline, imports increase and the balance of payments deficit continues.

Confidence in the dollar declines and threatens the economic future of the nation and the world.

In 1965 the administration promised to recommend legislation to deal with national emergency strikes stemming from the abuses of this monopoly collective bargaining power. But nothing was done.

Then, after the disastrous New York transit strike, the promise was repeated, but again no action resulted.

Then came crisis after crisis in monopoly collective bargaining — airlines, steel, rubber, railroads, trucking, copper. And still there was no program.

The usual reaction has been to let a national emergency labor dispute get worse and worse, and then step in to dictate a settlement which is too often one-sided and inflationary. That's bad enough, because each time such an approach is taken, the American economy loses some of its freedom, and the inflationary spiral wings even higher.

IN THE RAIL STRIKE, the approach went beyond White House intervention and arm twisting. The White House had to use Congress as a collective bargaining tool on a day-to-day basis, finally securing a settlement only by special act of our nation's highest legislative body authorizing compulsory arbitration.

Today another deficiency in the field of emergency shut down has come to the fore — the inability to deal with strikes which may not produce a national emergency but do create a state or local emergency.

An immediate example is the strike which has shut down operation of Detroit's two major newspapers for over six months. The result has been a vast gap in essential communications in one of our nation's largest metropolitan centers.

Recognizing that a free society cannot function effectively without a free press, this prolonged shutdown has created a state emergency more serious to Michigan than the impact of many more remote national emergency strikes.

But because some parties to such a dispute are technically involved in interstate commerce, it has been opinioned that the National Labor Relations Act preempts responsibility for dealing with such disputes.

Thus we have a new dilemma in emergency strikes — a situation where the federal authority isn't used because a national emergency is not involved, and where state officials can't move because national laws have preempted the field.

Certainly it's complicated. Yet the very complication of the situation simply helps point up another grave deficiency in our national labor laws as they relate to labor-management disputes vitally affecting the public interest.

THE ANSWER in the case of such state and local emergencies may be revision of Taft-Hartley to permit the public interest to be asserted where the responsibility exists — at the state level. Such Congressional action will be sought.

But the long-range answer to labor emergencies will require courageous action of a much broader nature — action which will result only when people in public places quit worrying about the wishes of the excessively powerful organized economic groups and concern themselves with the wishes of all the people as consumers.

There are only two ways to discipline an economy — competition and absolute authority. And in our nation absolute authority, when it comes, will always come from government.

The real answer is to correct the basic monopolistic flaw in our labor laws, restore and strengthen the competitive principle, and then rely primarily on competitive discipline. This will prevent many emergency strikes from occurring in the first place.

We must also restore sanity to the fiscal and monetary policies of the federal government.

We must encourage greater management and labor teamwork for the chief benefit of consumers.

And we must put the consumer back in the economic driver's seat. For to have a dynamic, poverty-solving, high-employment sound economy, the consumers must be the principal ones to benefit from labor-management teamwork in achieving economic improvement.

Odd Facts

Alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant as some people suppose. It acts on the control centers of the brain to depress them, and this allows a person to exhibit certain kinds of behavior and attitudes that are normally repressed.

Egypt is one of the oldest nations in the world, its historical record dating back at least 5,000 years. The country already had an advanced civilization when the earliest native dynasty united the kingdoms of Upper and Lower Egypt about 3200 B.C.

RAYMOND MOLEY

McCarthy Move

Two months ago, in a column commenting upon Sen. Eugene McCarthy's proposal that, before negotiating with Hanoi, the United States should agree to a coalition with the Communists in South Vietnam, I said:

"That sort of talk by a presidential candidate announces to the world, and especially to Hanoi, that President Johnson's position does not represent the opinion of the nation.

"It is also a violation of a rule of political campaigning, a rule more often invoked than not, that when the president is concerned in delicate negotiations the opposition should maintain a discreet silence."

I noted at that time that Richard Nixon had observed this rule not only in the past but in the present contacts between the Johnson administration and Hanoi.

FOLLOWING THAT, I cited in direct quotations the agreements to which the United States subscribed, along with other nations involved in the war, earlier this year in New Zealand. Those agreements specifically ruled out any coalition government in South Vietnam.

McCarthy has now compounded his offense by declaring that he intends to go to Paris and actually talk with the representatives from Hanoi who are there in conference with the accredited representatives of the U.S. government.

He is quoted as saying in a television interview June 23: "I'd like to talk to them. It might be a good thing for me, as a presidential candidate, to speak directly to them. I would like to find out what the possibilities for some kind of a settlement or accommodation are."

McCarthy has been represented by his supporters as an individual who rises above the normal range of American politicians because he is possessed of an unusually fine education and, for a time before entering public life, served as a professor in two institutions of learning.

Somewhere, either in his academic work or during his service in Congress, he must have heard of a man named George Logan.

Logan was a resident of Philadelphia and a physician. In 1798, when the United States was on the verge of declaring war against France, Logan departed for France with the idea that he might heal the breach between the two countries. He did not take the trouble to obtain a passport from the State Department.

He was cordially received by that old master of dubious diplomacy, Talleyrand, and later returned to the United States. He was, of course, coldly received by ex-President Washington and President Adams.

Congress, however, taking note of the grave situation which is created when private citizens take into their hands negotiations with foreign powers, passed what has always been known as the "Logan Act."

This law, which is still on the books, makes it a high misdemeanor for a private citizen to interfere in a controversy between the United States and a foreign country. It has been repeatedly cited as a warning to individuals who have visited North Vietnam in the interest of what they call "peace," but has never been enforced.

In 1953, Rep. Alvin O'Konski was accused of violating this law because he wrote to President Rhee of South Korea, asking him to free some anti-Communist prisoners of war.

However, the O'Konski indiscretion was not nearly as serious as this proposal by McCarthy.

FOR O'KONSKI addressed his letter to the president of a country with which we were allied and his communication did not involve an issue which was under negotiation.

It is quite obvious that our government will not invoke the Logan Act if McCarthy carries out his plan. The President is too wise to provide his critic with a martyr's halo.

But this harebrained proposal should go far to convince the more adult supporters of McCarthy that they are not dealing merely with a shallow and overambitious but sincere friend of peace. Instead, their hero reveals himself now as a desperate and reckless adventurer who is willing to place politics over the vital interests of his own country.

Five Diplomatic Moves Preceded Release Of Jet

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five diplomatic moves preceded the release of an American plane held on a Soviet Island for more than 48 hours after it was forced to land by MIG fighters while flying troops to Vietnam.

Two of the five moves were informal, but they involved top-level men on both sides. The three others concerned formal diplomatic representation, on a somewhat lower level.

Official Washington was sweltering in near-100-degree heat when the first report of the incident reached the Pentagon and the State Department's Operations Centers at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Clark Clifford were immediately notified. So was Walt W. Rostow, President Johnson's foreign policy adviser.

Russians Contacted

Half an hour later when another message confirmed the incident and gave more details about how the DC8 commercial aircraft, chartered by the Military Airlift Command, strayed off course and was forced by MIGs to land on Iturup Island in the Pacific Kuriles Chain, Rusk made the first move: He called Anatole Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador.

Dobrynin did not know about the incident. Rusk explained that if the plane did violate Soviet air space, it was unintentional and that the United States hope the plane and the 231 people aboard would be released quickly.

Simultaneously, a message was sent to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow instructing Ambassador Llewelyn Thompson to raise the matter with the Soviet foreign minister.

Thompson had a better idea: He knew he would meet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin at the Kremlin ceremony at which the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was to be signed. The two men spoke shortly before noon, Moscow time—early morning in Washington.

Investigation Started

Kosygin knew about the incident. He listened to Thompson telling him what Rusk told Dobrynin Sunday evening. The reply was that the case was under investigation.

The next step was more formal. At 7 p.m. Moscow time (11 a.m. here) Vasilij Kuznetsov, first deputy foreign minister, called in Thompson and handed him a note, protesting in firm, but not angry terms the violation of Soviet air space by the plane.

Thompson immediately told the Russian that the violation, if there was any, was inadvertent, probably due to a navigational error, and again expressed the hope that the incident would be settled quickly.

Also Monday afternoon the administration was told by the Federal Aviation Agency that a thorough check of all available data showed that the plane in fact strayed off course and flew into Soviet air space. The decision was made to accept the consequences and apologize immediately.

Apology Made

At 8 p.m. EDT Monday evening Malcolm Toon, country director for the Soviet Union at the State Department, called in Yuri N. Tcherniakov, minister counselor of the Soviet Embassy, and gave him a note expression regret over the violation and repeating the request for release of the plane and the men. A copy of the note was sent to the embassy in Moscow.

The last step was made in Moscow at midmorning (Moscow time) Tuesday when Georgi Kornienko, head of the American section of the Soviet foreign ministry, told Thompson that the plane and the men could go and that orders to this effect already had been transmitted to Soviet military authorities in the Pacific area.

The plane and all 229 passengers and crew left the Soviet island Tuesday at 9:00 p.m. and flew to Japan.

Young Motorist Posts $25 Bond

LISBON — William M. Makras, 18, of 367 Hawley Ave., Salem, posted a $25 appearance bond at 5 a. m. today at the police station 6½ hours after being charged with reckless operation and driving without corrective lenses.

Makras was accompanied by another boy and two girls who said they would return to Salem and get bond money for him.

The never returned. At 4 a.m., Lisbon police received a call from Wellsville police asking if Makras was in custody here. Wellsville had picked up the trio plus another boy the Salem group recruited after Makras was detained. Wellsville told police the youths were breaking into parking meters.

Advised of this development, Makras decided to call home for bond.

Gerald H. Dunca, 40, of Philadelphia, cited here June 28 for driving left of center, forfeited a $25 appearance bond Monday in mayor's court.

Ohio Prisons Defended By State Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — People who condemn Ohio's entire prison system because of the performance of one institution are "uninformed" and have not observed what the state has been accomplishing, Corrections Chief Maury C. Koblenz said Tuesday.

"Two of our institutions, at Marysville and Lebanon, compare with any in the nation," Koblenz declared.

The Marysville institution is for women and Lebanon is a medium - security prison for younger offenders.

Koblenz' remarks were in rebuttal to criticism that followed last week's riot and fires at Ohio Penitentiary.

He said most of the critics of the state's penal system base all of their criticism on the performance of one institution.

Koblentz believes that two of the division's accomplishments in recent years have been the tripling of the number of professional teachers in the education system and establishment of accredited high schools at Lebanon and the Mansfield Reformatory.

More than 3,000 inmates are enrolled in some type of educational or vocational programs, he said, and some convicts are attending college-level classes.

Concerning problems at Ohio Penitentiary, Koblenz said the 2,750 inmates represent the "ultra-hard core" criminals.

On the positive side, Koblenz said 70 per cent of persons serving prison terms in Ohio complete their parole successfully and never return behind bars.

Jail Sentence Given Man On Check Fraud

A 55-year-old East Liverpool man was sentenced to a 90-day County Jail term and fined $100 and costs Tuesday afternoon by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge he used false pretenses on April 24 in cashing a $50 check at the Loblaw, Inc., Market on Bradshaw Ave.

George R. McHenry of 2200 Crawford Ave. was sentenced on the charge alleging he presented the check drawn on the Potters Bank & Trust Co. and bearing his signature, although he knew he had no account at the bank.

Before pronouncing sentence, the judge lectured McHenry for what he termed "reprehensible" conduct toward Mrs. George Gaines, 22, of Smiths Ferry RD 1, who also was before the court on charges of cashing a fraudulent check at the same store.

The judge said he believes McHenry instigated the check-cashing scheme and persuaded Mrs. Gaines to participate in it.

"You are old enough to be this girl's father and yet you took her away and lived with her in an automobile for three months," the judge told McHenry. He pointed out that police traced five allegedly fraudulent checks to the pair — two cashed in East Liverpool and three more cashed at places outside the city.

At the same time, the judge gave Mrs. Gaines, a suspended 60-day jail sentence and placed her on probation to her mother. Questioned by the court, the woman said she does not know the whereabouts of her husband.

The judge stipulated as terms of probation that Mrs. Gaines must live with and obey her mother; obey all laws of the state and stay out of supermarkets unless accompanied by her mother.

Name Performers Set For Jazz Event

CINCINNATI (AP) — Six big-name performers head the list of jazz greats of the 7th annual Ohio Valley Jazz Festival scheduled for Aug. 17 at Cincinnati's Crosley Field.

The festival, under the sponsorship of the Schlitz Brewing Co., will feature performances by Dionne Warwick, Hugh Masekela, Ramsey Lewis, Herbie Mann, Thelonious Monk and Gary Burton.

Farmer From Norway Begins Visit In County

LISBON — A young Norwegian farmer arrived Tuesday afternoon to spend two weeks with a Butler Township family.

Sigurd Olav Risdal, 22, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gibson of Ferndale Farm, Salem RD 2.

He is in this country under the International Farm Youth Exchange program. His IFYE-assigned route will take him across the United States and give him an opportunity to live with several families and observe various agricultural practices.

Reared on a small general farm near Tau Pr. Stravanger, Risdal has had advanced training in an agricultural school. He is particularly interested in vegetable production and animal husbandry. He was a 4-H member and served as a club leader for five years.

His visit here is made possible through the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H programs of Norway and the United States and the host families.

Extension office personnel said Sigurd will be a guest at a recognition dinner they will give Sunday evening for junior leaders who served as 4-H camp counselors last month at Leesville Lake.

United Bid Again Asked To Speed Redevelopment

The comprehensive plan for redevelopment of the area has been completed, Don Eckert, city planning coordinator, told members of the Rotary Club Tuesday and called on all residents, especially the businessmen and city officials, to "roll up your sleeves and help with the difficult task of implementing the program."

Only through cooperation of all can the goal be realized, he said during his noon address at the Travelers Hotel.

ECKERT cited the Springfield mall experiment and Marietta as examples of cities which, through the cooperation of businessmen and local government officials, successfully raised the prosperity of their respective communities.

The building and zoning codes are not popular with the people in general, Eckert admitted, and with the additional qualifications outlined by the federal government the codes become more difficult to accept.

However, the city cannot undertake the project by itself so some "hardships" will have to be endured.

Under federal requirements, every home in the community must be inspected within the next five years, Eckert pointed out.

Inspection will be conducted by a three - man team consisting of Chester Brown, zoning superintendent, Jack Bonner of the health board and Alfred VanDyne, fire chief.

—:—

ECKERT cautioned residents that if there is any doubt as to the identity of the inspectors, city hall should be contacted for verification.

The Pleasant Heights area has been selected as the place for launching the inspections.

Necessary repairs or changes can be made by anyone, Eckert pointed out, just so the finished job meets specifications.

East Liverpool must expand, annex surrounding areas and bring in new industries, he continued. Expansion now is limited to the north. The city does have an advantage that under new state laws communities within three miles of the city limits cannot become incorporate without the permission of the city, he explained.

Annexation, called a two-way street, was termed a necessary step in the development program.

Gov. Reagan Announces He's Still GOP Candidate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says his name will go before the Republican National Convention next month and "at that time I can be considered a candidate by delegates so inclined."

Reagan says his comments last week were misinterpreted when he said he might abandon his favorite son presidential role and release his 86 California votes if "the unforeseen happened" and it appeared someone else had the nomination sewed up before the convention.

"I believe it is an open convention," he told a news conference Tuesday. "I don't believe it is tied up. I intend to be placed in nomination by the California delegation and if at that time the convention wishes to consider me a candidate, the convention can do so."

Reagan's remarks came after a reporter asked his current situation in view of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's success in piling up delegate commitments.

During the news conference, Reagan's office released the text of a telegram the Republican chief executive sent last week to Henry A. Bubb of Topeka, Kan., chairman of the Citizens for Reagan National Information Center.

Bubb asked Reagan to restate his position, adding: "Please give the hundreds of thousands of Republicans now supporting your candidacy the opportunity to keep the convention open. We believe the nomination will be yours unless you turn aside our efforts."

Reagan said, "My name will be placed in nomination. Obviously, at that time I can be considered a candidate by delegates so inclined."

"I am well aware of and greatly honored by the activities in my behalf," he said, but added, "it would be impossible for me to present myself as a candidate prior to the convention."

Reagan commented at length for the first time on a petition drive to force an election this fall to recall him. Organizers claim they have 650,000 of the 780,414 signatures needed to force a recall election, with the rest of July to gather more names.

Reagan called the movement a politically motivated attempt to embarass him. He said it was a dangerous precedent because it was based on philosophical disagreement and not any alleged misconduct in office. "I'll take my chances on what the people say," he added.

Awarded Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration awarded a $1,957,323 contract to General Electric Co., Evandale, Ohio, Tuesday to continue maintenance and support during the next year of its huge 2,000-mile-an-hour XB70 research aircraft.

Most famous blizzard in American history is that of March 11, 1888, in the northeastern states.

Six Arrested In Burglaries

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Two men and four juveniles have been arrested in connection with 17 burglaries since February in Clermont, Hamilton, Butler and Warren counties.

The two men — Daniel Lacy, Mason, and John McClellan, 18, Loveland—were jailed Tuesday after being charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Officers said the burglaries involved schools and businesses in communities near Cincinnati and netted about $3,000 in cash and thousands of dollars in merchandise.

Hamilton County police said one of the youths confessed to the robberies and implicated the others when he was treated for a gunshot wound at Cincinnati's Lady of Mercy Hospital. He said he suffered the wound during one of the burglaries in Warren County but managed to elude police.

Two of the youths were placed in Boys Industrial School and the other two were under investigation.

Large Crowd Fills New Opera Theater

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The Santa Fe Opera Association opened a new season and a new $1.75 million theater Tuesday with a production of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" under the direction of John Crosby.

A crowd of 1,366 filled the theater, which was constructed after the old facility burned in 1967.

QUESTION — "Why are most funeral homes so large and furnished so lavishly?"

ANSWER—It would be possible for funeral directors to revert back to the barren store rooms, but no family would patronize such firms. The American public demands that facilities available to them should be properly housed in appropriate surroundings, such as the churches and synagogues they regularly attend. They insist on convenience, comfort and a dignified appearance of all facilities.

Official Washington was sweltering in near-100-degree heat when the first report of the incident reached the Pentagon and the State Department's Operations Centers at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Clark Clifford were immediately notified. So was Walt W. Rostow, President Johnson's foreign policy adviser.

Russians Contacted

Half an hour later when another message confirmed the incident and gave more details about how the DC8 commercial aircraft, chartered by the Military Airlift Command, strayed off course and was forced by MIGs to land on Iturup Island in the Pacific Kuriles Chain, Rusk made the first move: He called Anatole Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador.

Dobrynin did not know about the incident. Rusk explained that if the plane did violate Soviet air space, it was unintentional and that the United States hope the plane and the 231 people aboard would be released quickly.

Simultaneously, a message was sent to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow instructing Ambassador Llewelyn Thompson to raise the matter with the Soviet foreign minister.

Thompson had a better idea: He knew he would meet Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin at the Kremlin ceremony at which the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was to be signed. The two men spoke shortly before noon, Moscow time—early morning in Washington.

Investigation Started

Kosygin knew about the incident. He listened to Thompson telling him what Rusk told Dobrynin Sunday evening. The reply was that the case was under investigation.

The next step was more formal. At 7 p.m. Moscow time (11 a.m. here) Vasilij Kuznetsov, first deputy foreign minister, called in Thompson and handed him a note, protesting in firm, but not angry terms the violation of Soviet air space by the plane.

Thompson immediately told the Russian that the violation, if there was any, was inadvertent, probably due to a navigational error, and again expressed the hope that the incident would be settled quickly.

Also Monday afternoon the administration was told by the Federal Aviation Agency that a thorough check of all available data showed that the plane in fact strayed off course and flew into Soviet air space. The decision was made to accept the consequences and apologize immediately.

Apology Made

At 8 p.m. EDT Monday evening Malcolm Toon, country director for the Soviet Union at the State Department, called in Yuri N. Tcherniakov, minister counselor of the Soviet Embassy, and gave him a note expression regret over the violation and repeating the request for release of the plane and the men. A copy of the note was sent to the embassy in Moscow.

The last step was made in Moscow at midmorning (Moscow time) Tuesday when Georgi Kornienko, head of the American section of the Soviet foreign ministry, told Thompson that the plane and the men could go and that orders to this effect already had been transmitted to Soviet military authorities in the Pacific area.

The plane and all 229 passengers and crew left the Soviet island Tuesday at 9:00 p.m. and flew to Japan.

Young Motorist Posts $25 Bond

LISBON — William M. Makras, 18, of 367 Hawley Ave., Salem, posted a $25 appearance bond at 5 a. m. today at the police station 6½ hours after being charged with reckless operation and driving without corrective lenses.

Makras was accompanied by another boy and two girls who said they would return to Salem and get bond money for him.

The never returned. At 4 a.m., Lisbon police received a call from Wellsville police asking if Makras was in custody here. Wellsville had picked up the trio plus another boy the Salem group recruited after Makras was detained. Wellsville told police the youths were breaking into parking meters.

Advised of this development, Makras decided to call home for bond.

Ohio Prisons Defended By State Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — People who condemn Ohio's entire prison system because of the performance of one institution are "uninformed" and have not observed what the state has been accomplishing, Corrections Chief Maury C. Koblenz said Tuesday.

"Two of our institutions, at Marysville and Lebanon, compare with any in the nation," Koblenz declared.

The Marysville institution is for women and Lebanon is a medium - security prison for younger offenders.

Koblenz' remarks were in rebuttal to criticism that followed last week's riot and fires at Ohio Penitentiary.

He said most of the critics of the state's penal system base all of their criticism on the performance of one institution.

Koblentz believes that two of the division's accomplishments in recent years have been the tripling of the number of professional teachers in the education system and establishment of accredited high schools at Lebanon and the Mansfield Reformatory.

More than 3,000 inmates are enrolled in some type of educational or vocational programs, he said, and some convicts are attending college-level classes.

Concerning problems at Ohio Penitentiary, Koblenz said the 2,750 inmates represent the "ultra-hard core" criminals.

On the positive side, Koblenz said 70 per cent of persons serving prison terms in Ohio complete their parole successfully and never return behind bars.

Jail Sentence Given Man On Check Fraud

A 55-year-old East Liverpool man was sentenced to a 90-day County Jail term and fined $100 and costs Tuesday afternoon by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge he used false pretenses on April 24 in cashing a $50 check at the Loblaw, Inc., Market on Bradshaw Ave.

George R. McHenry of 2200 Crawford Ave. was sentenced on the charge alleging he presented the check drawn on the Potters Bank & Trust Co. and bearing his signature, although he knew he had no account at the bank.

Before pronouncing sentence, the judge lectured McHenry for what he termed "reprehensible" conduct toward Mrs. George Gaines, 22, of Smiths Ferry RD 1, who also was before the court on charges of cashing a fraudulent check at the same store.

The judge said he believes McHenry instigated the check-cashing scheme and persuaded Mrs. Gaines to participate in it.

"You are old enough to be this girl's father and yet you took her away and lived with her in an automobile for three months," the judge told McHenry. He pointed out that police traced five allegedly fraudulent checks to the pair — two cashed in East Liverpool and three more cashed at places outside the city.

At the same time, the judge gave Mrs. Gaines, a suspended 60-day jail sentence and placed her on probation to her mother. Questioned by the court, the woman said she does not know the whereabouts of her husband.

The judge stipulated as terms of probation that Mrs. Gaines must live with and obey her mother; obey all laws of the state and stay out of supermarkets unless accompanied by her mother.

Name Performers Set For Jazz Event

CINCINNATI (AP) — Six big-name performers head the list of jazz greats of the 7th annual Ohio Valley Jazz Festival scheduled for Aug. 17 at Cincinnati's Crosley Field.

The festival, under the sponsorship of the Schlitz Brewing Co., will feature performances by Dionne Warwick, Hugh Masekela, Ramsey Lewis, Herbie Mann, Thelonious Monk and Gary Burton.

Farmer From Norway Begins Visit In County

LISBON — A young Norwegian farmer arrived Tuesday afternoon to spend two weeks with a Butler Township family.

Sigurd Olav Risdal, 22, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gibson of Ferndale Farm, Salem RD 2.

He is in this country under the International Farm Youth Exchange program. His IFYE-assigned route will take him across the United States and give him an opportunity to live with several families and observe various agricultural practices.

Reared on a small general farm near Tau Pr. Stravanger, Risdal has had advanced training in an agricultural school. He is particularly interested in vegetable production and animal husbandry. He was a 4-H member and served as a club leader for five years.

His visit here is made possible through the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H programs of Norway and the United States and the host families.

Extension office personnel said Sigurd will be a guest at a recognition dinner they will give Sunday evening for junior leaders who served as 4-H camp counselors last month at Leesville Lake.

United Bid Again Asked To Speed Redevelopment

The comprehensive plan for redevelopment of the area has been completed, Don Eckert, city planning coordinator, told members of the Rotary Club Tuesday and called on all residents, especially the businessmen and city officials, to "roll up your sleeves and help with the difficult task of implementing the program."

Only through cooperation of all can the goal be realized, he said during his noon address at the Travelers Hotel.

ECKERT cited the Springfield mall experiment and Marietta as examples of cities which, through the cooperation of businessmen and local government officials, successfully raised the prosperity of their respective communities.

The building and zoning codes are not popular with the people in general, Eckert admitted, and with the additional qualifications outlined by the federal government the codes become more difficult to accept.

However, the city cannot undertake the project by itself so some "hardships" will have to be endured.

Under federal requirements, every home in the community must be inspected within the next five years, Eckert pointed out.

Inspection will be conducted by a three - man team consisting of Chester Brown, zoning superintendent, Jack Bonner of the health board and Alfred VanDyne, fire chief.

—:—

ECKERT cautioned residents that if there is any doubt as to the identity of the inspectors, city hall should be contacted for verification.

The Pleasant Heights area has been selected as the place for launching the inspections.

Necessary repairs or changes can be made by anyone, Eckert pointed out, just so the finished job meets specifications.

East Liverpool must expand, annex surrounding areas and bring in new industries, he continued. Expansion now is limited to the north. The city does have an advantage that under new state laws communities within three miles of the city limits cannot become incorporate without the permission of the city, he explained.

Annexation, called a two - way street, was termed a necessary step in the development program.

Gov. Reagan Announces He's Still GOP Candidate

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says his name will go before the Republican National Convention next month and "at that time I can be considered a candidate by delegates so inclined."

Reagan says his comments last week were misinterpreted when he said he might abandon his favorite son presidential role and release his 86 California votes if "the unforeseen happened" and it appeared someone else had the nomination sewed up before the convention.

"I believe it is an open convention," he told a news conference Tuesday. "I don't believe it is tied up. I intend to be placed in nomination by the California delegation and if at that time the convention wishes to consider me a candidate, the convention can do so."

Reagan's remarks came after a reporter asked his current situation in view of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's success in piling up delegate commitments.

During the news conference, Reagan's office released the text of a telegram the Republican chief executive sent last week to Henry A. Bubb of Topeka, Kan., chairman of the Citizens for Reagan National Information Center.

Bubb asked Reagan to restate his position, adding: "Please give the hundreds of thousands of Republicans now supporting your candidacy the opportunity to keep the convention open. We believe the nomination will be yours unless you turn aside our efforts."

Reagan said, "My name will be placed in nomination. Obviously, at that time I can be considered a candidate by delegates so inclined."

"I am well aware of and greatly honored by the activities in my behalf," he said, but added, "it would be impossible for me to present myself as a candidate prior to the convention."

Reagan commented at length for the first time on a petition drive to force an election this fall to recall him. Organizers claim they have 650,000 of the 780,414 signatures needed to force a recall election, with the rest of July to gather more names.

Reagan called the movement a politically motivated attempt to embarass him. He said it was a dangerous precedent because it was based on philosophical disagreement and not any alleged misconduct in office. "I'll take my chances on what the people say," he added.

Awarded Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration awarded a $1,957,323 contract to General Electric Co., Evandale, Ohio, Tuesday to continue maintenance and support during the next year of its huge 2,000-mile-an-hour XB70 research aircraft.

Most famous blizzard in American history is that of March 11, 1888, in the northeastern states.

Six Arrested In Burglaries

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Two men and four juveniles have been arrested in connection with 17 burglaries since February in Clermont, Hamilton, Butler and Warren counties.

The two men — Daniel Lacy, Mason, and John McClellan, 18, Loveland—were jailed Tuesday after being charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Officers said the burglaries involved schools and businesses in communities near Cincinnati and netted about $3,000 in cash and thousands of dollars in merchandise.

Hamilton County police said one of the youths confessed to the robberies and implicated the others when he was treated for a gunshot wound at Cincinnati's Lady of Mercy Hospital. He said he suffered the wound during one of the burglaries in Warren County but managed to elude police.

Two of the youths were placed in Boys Industrial School and the other two were under investigation.

Large Crowd Fills New Opera Theater

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The Santa Fe Opera Association opened a new season and a new $1.75 million theater Tuesday with a production of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" under the direction of John Crosby.

A crowd of 1,366 filled the theater, which was constructed after the old facility burned in 1967.

QUESTION — "Why are most funeral homes so large and furnished so lavishly?"

ANSWER—It would be possible for funeral directors to revert back to the barren store rooms, but no family would patronize such firms. The American public demands that facilities available to them should be properly housed in appropriate surroundings, such as the churches and synagogues they regularly attend. They insist on convenience, comfort and a dignified appearance of all facilities.

President William V. Ring has appointed a committee consisting of T. Paul Laughner, Harry Weikart and Robert Kornbau to search the club's records and report on achievements. Members are working for 100 per cent attendance at the anniversary event.

English Traditions Mark Local Wedding Ceremony

English traditions were observed during the marriage of Miss Patricia Joan Daily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Daily of Harding Ave., and David Byers Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin B. Harper of Buckinghamshire, England, June 22 at the First Church of Christ.

The Rev. E. C. Traylor officiated for the double - ring ceremony in the presence of 200 relatives and friends. The altar background was formed of white gladioli, palms, ferns and candelabra. Eggshell satin bows marked the family pews. Richard Sayre was organist and Harry Marshall soloist.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length A-line style gown of candlelight peau de soie. The high-rise bodice was accented with Venice lace and the same lace was used in the Kabuki sleeves. The court coat was caught at the shoulders and sides with self bows and flowed into a chapel train.

Her four - tier veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Dior bow which highlighted a candlelight Camelot headpiece of lace motifs accented with crystals and pearls. She carried a crescent - shaped cascade of white roses, stephanotis and varigated enonymus.

In observing the traditions, she wore her mother's family pearls and the blue garter, the gift of her Godmother, Mrs. Charles Sayre. The sixpence in her shoe was brought from England by the bridegroom's father.

Mrs. David Neibert of Skaneateles, N. Y., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald Damon of Mentor Headlands, cousin of the bride; Miss Frances Leon, and Miss Susan Osborne of Pittsburgh.

They appeared in full-length gowns of spring apricot designed with scoop necklines, short sleeves and A-line skirts. Venice lace in multi-apricot trim and moss green velvet bows and streamers accented the front of the bodice.

Their headpieces were double Dior bows of moss velvet to which were attached double jet veils. They carried bouquets of variegated foliages cascading from rosettes of Hawaiian ti leaves, accented with moss green velvet ribbons.

John A. Harper of Kingston, Jamaica, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Donald Damon of Mentor Headlands and Clifford Mix of Salem, cousins of the bride, and John Hayes.

The mother of the bride chose a willow green ensemble featuring a demi-fit dress with wedding ring collar and classic coat. The bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise demi-fit dress and three-quarter-length coat ensemble. Their attire was complemented with hat creations of Mr. John and purse corsages of white roses and stephanotis.

Complying with English custom, paper rose petals brought from England, were thrown at the newlyweds instead of the traditional rice.

MRS. DAVID HARPER
Will Reside In Jamaica.

—:—

A RECEPTION followed at The Willows in Industry, where Miss Kay Watterson of Maryland, registered guests, including Miss Vickie McKenie of Scotland and Alan Christie of England. The buffet table was centered with a four - tier cake topped with a nosegay of white roses and stephanotis. The memory candle was encircled with apricot and tinted mums and springeri green.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and draped with springeri green interspersed with bows of eggshell satin. The centerpiece of apricot color tinted carnations was flanked by three-branch candelabra holding white tapers.

Included in the English traditions was the toasting to the newlyweds by the best man, who read overseas congratulatory telegrams. The bridegroom gave the response and a toast to his bride.

Aides were Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Andrew Myers and Mrs. David McEwen.

For her honeymoon trip to the north coast of Jamaica, the bride was attired in a spring green silk suit with blue and green pin-stripe blouse and green accessories. A corsage of white completed her costume.

The bride was graduated from East Liverpool High School and Kent State University, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. She formerly taught at Edison Local School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rugby College of Engineering at Warwickshire, England, and is employed as an engineer with Reginald Aitken Ltd., at Kingston, Jamaica, where the newlyweds will reside.

Mrs. Robert Heddleston of Salem, aunt of the bride, entertained for the rehearsal dinner party. The buffet table was covered with a white organdy cloth and highlighted with a silver punch bowl and five - branch silver candelabra. The floral arrangement was formed of apricot color mums, springeri green, wedding bells and bows.

Personalities In The News

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Harold A. Salmon, 38, is the first Negro pastor in the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York.

He was named Tuesday by Archbishop Terence J. Cooke to head Harlem's largest parish, St. Charles Borromeo's, and at the same time appointed vicariate delegate for Harlem.

Archbishop Cooke said that in the latter role Father Salmon would coordinate "the over-all planning and efforts of the seven Harlem parishes so that they may better serve the total community."

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Kristjan Eldjarn, director of the national museum, has won a landslide victory in Iceland's presidential election.

Eldjarn, 52, a nationalist who once opposed the presence of U.S. airbases in his country, won 65 per cent of the vote.

His total was nearly twice that of Gunar Thoroddsen, a diplomat and son-in-law of outgoing President Asgeir Asgeirsson.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the first time Negroes head the Los Angeles city and county school systems.

The Rev. Daniel Towler, 40, former football star with the Los Angeles Rams, has been elected president of the county Board of Education. The Rev. James E. Jones was elected president of the city board Monday.

Towler, 40, is Methodist chaplain at Los Angeles State College. He has been the only Negro member of the seven-member county board.

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Gianni Agnelli, president and main stockholder of the Fiat automaking company, earns $1.76 million a year, according to the list of municipal taxpayers made public Tuesday by city officials.

The city will ask Agnelli to pay $253,440 in tax.

However, Agnelli is likely to appeal the city's assessment as he has done often in previous years.

Co-hostessing the affair was a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rose of 925 Ohio Ave.

The couple was married June 30, 1928, by the Rev. Frederick A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Ramsey of Chester. Mrs. Rose was the former Hazel Walton.

They have resided in the area most of their married lives and are members of the Grace United Presbyterian Church, the former Second Presbyterian Church. Rose is employed at the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Corp.

There are three grandchildren

Refreshments were served 35 on tables arranged on the lawn. The buffet table was centered with a decorated cake. Flowers completed the setting.

The honored guests received gifts and cards.

Red Cross Starts Adult Swim Class

Swimming classes for adults will start tonight at Thompson Park pool, according to Don Eckert and Dr. Stephen Sinclair, co-chairmen of the Water Safety Committee of the Area Red Cross Chapter.

Advanced Beginner, Intermediate and Swimmer classes will be held if a sufficient number register. A Senior Life Saving class will also be offered.

Registration will be taken at the pool. The co - chairmen announced there is no charge for the swimming instruction. Admission to the pool — which is closed Wednesday evenings to persons under 16 — is the only charge.

The co-chairmen also stated that there are still a few openings in the morning classes for the second session of the chapter's swimming program which starts on July 15 for three weeks. Those wishing to register for this session must obtain registration cards at the chapter office and return them by July 5.

2 Granges Meet At Lisbon Hall

LISBON — Both the Subordinate and Junior granges met Monday night, with Fred Bates acting master for the former and Mrs. Bates, Mrs. David Pannier and Mrs. Harvey Doyle III in charge of the latter.

During the business, last Saturday's festival was discussed, with more than 600 served.

The Johnny Appleseed Festival also was reviewed and plans to set another work night to improve grange property were discussed.

Following the meeting, an outdoor wiener roast with games and skits completed the activities.

The next meeting will be Aug. 5.

Debbie McElroy Marries In Wellsville Ceremonies

A floor-length gown of organza and white lace was worn by Miss Debbie McElroy, daughter of Mrs. Charles Craig of Pittsburgh and Wilton McElroy of Frischkorn Heights, Wellsville, when she became the bride of Robert Duffield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Duffield of Commerce St., Wellsville, June 22 in the Wellsville First Christian Church.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Schondelmayer before an altar of white gladioli, mums, carnations and palms. A half-hour of pre-nuptial music was presented by Ralph Falconer.

THE BRIDE'S gown featured a bodice with an overlay of Chantilly lace, accepted with seed pearls and sequins, and long pointed sleeves.

A bouffant veil of nylon illusion was held in place by a headpiece of handmade lace trimmed in seed pearls and sequins.

She carried an arrangement of orchids, stephanotis and ivy on a Bible. The bride wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Denise McElroy, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor-length gown of maize nylon. The bodice showed an Empire waistline and bell sleeves edged in lace. A detachable train was secured by a bow.

She wore a shoulder - length veil held by a yellow rose trimmed in seed pearls.

A cascade bouquet of white carnations and yellow and pink roses was carried.

Miss Kay Taggart was a bridesmaid in a mint green frock identical in design to that of the maid of honor.

Charles Brown was best man. Ushers were Robert Morehead and Tony D'Angelo.

The mother of the bride appeared in a green suit trimmed in beige with beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow dress with white accessories. They wore white carnation corsages.

MRS. ROBERT DUFFIELD
Residing In Lorain

—:—

A RECEPTION followed in the church social rooms. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier cake decorated in yellow and white and topped with a miniature bridal couple. It was flanked by lighted tapers. Another table was centered with an arrangement of daisies also flanked by candelabra.

Joyce McIntosh and Mike McElroy, brother of the bride, registered guests. Aides were Barbara Fox, an aunt of the bride, and Marie Curry, Vivian Taggart and Marilyn Wood.

For a honymoon to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a turquoise dress trimmed in olive green with green accessories.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Southern Local High School. Her husband, a 1967 graduate of Wellsville High School, is employed at the Ford plant in Lorain.

The couple is residing in Lorain. A rehearsal party was given by the bridegroom's parents.

English Traditions Mark Local Wedding Ceremony

English traditions were observed during the marriage of Miss Patricia Joan Daily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Daily of Harding Ave., and David Byers Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin B. Harper of Buckinghamshire, England, June 22 at the First Church of Christ.

The Rev. E. C. Traylor officiated for the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 200 relatives and friends. The altar background was formed of white gladioli, palms, ferns and candelabra. Eggshell satin bows marked the family pews. Richard Sayre was organist and Harry Marshall soloist.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length A-line style gown of candlelight peau de soie. The high-rise bodice was accented with Venice lace and the same lace was used in the Kabuki sleeves. The court coat was caught at the shoulders and sides with self bows and flowed into a chapel train.

Her four-tier veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Dior bow which highlighted a candlelight Camelot headpiece of lace motifs accented with crystals and pearls. She carried a crescent-shaped cascade of white roses, stephanotis and varigated enonymus.

In observing the traditions, she wore her mother's family pearls and the blue garter, the gift of her Godmother, Mrs. Charles Sayre. The sixpence in her shoe was brought from England by the bridegroom's father.

Mrs. David Neibert of Skaneateles, N. Y., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald Damon of Mentor Headlands, cousin of the bride; Miss Frances Leon, and Miss Susan Osborne of Pittsburgh.

They appeared in full-length gowns of spring apricot designed with scoop necklines, short sleeves and A-line skirts. Venice lace in multi-apricot trim and moss green velvet bows and streamers accented the front of the bodice.

Their headpieces were double Dior bows of moss velvet to which were attached double jet veils. They carried bouquets of variegated foliages cascading from rosettes of Hawaiian ti leaves, accented with moss green velvet ribbons.

John A. Harper of Kingston, Jamaica, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Donald Damon of Mentor Headlands and Clifford Mix of Salem, cousins of the bride, and John Hayes.

The mother of the bride chose a willow green ensemble featuring a demi-fit dress with wedding ring collar and classic coat. The bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise demi-fit dress and three-quarter-length coat ensemble. Their attire was complemented with hat creations of Mr. John and purse corsages of white roses and stephanotis.

Complying with English custom, paper rose petals brought from England, were thrown at the newlyweds instead of the traditional rice.

MRS. DAVID HARPER
Will Reside In Jamaica.

—:—

A RECEPTION followed at The Willows in Industry, where Miss Kay Watterson of Maryland, registered guests, including Miss Vickie McKenie of Scotland and Alan Christie of England. The buffet table was centered with a four-tier cake topped with a nosegay of white roses and stephanotis. The memory candle was encircled with apricot and tinted mums and springeri green.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and draped with springeri green interspersed with bows of eggshell satin. The centerpiece of apricot color tinted carnations was flanked by three-branch candelabra holding white tapers.

Included in the English traditions was the toasting to the newlyweds by the best man, who read overseas congratulatory telegrams. The bridegroom gave the response and a toast to his bride.

Aides were Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Andrew Myers and Mrs. David McEwen.

For her honeymoon trip to the north coast of Jamaica, the bride was attired in a spring green silk suit with blue and green pin-stripe blouse and green accessories. A corsage of white completed her costume.

The bride was graduated from East Liverpool High School and Kent State University, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. She formerly taught at Edison Local School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rugby College of Engineering at Warwickshire, England, and is employed as an engineer with Reginald Aitken Ltd., at Kingston, Jamaica, where the newlyweds will reside.

Mrs. Robert Heddleston of Salem, aunt of the bride, entertained for the rehearsal dinner party. The buffet table was covered with a white organdy cloth and highlighted with a silver punch bowl and five-branch silver candelabra. The floral arrangement was formed of apricot color mums, springeri green, wedding bells and bows.

Extended Phone Service Studied

LISBON — Extension of telephone service from the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges (General Telephone Co. of Ohio) to the Lisbon exchange (Ohio Bell) is under consideration.

James Fought of Minerva, Minerva district customer representative for General, met at the Courthouse Tuesday afternoon with Charles J. Gause, chairman of the county commissioners; State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon and Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis, a former member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Fought said Hanoverton and Winona each has over 700 main stations (telephones with numbers not county extensions). He estimated toll - free service between the two exchanges and Lisbon would cost an additional 25 cents per month for home subscribers and more for commercial or business phones.

Exact costs will have to await studies by General's engineers. Then, representatives of General will make a random sampling survey in the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges to find out if subscribers desire the extension.

Winona already has extended service with Salem — an Ohio Bell exchange.

Walt Disney Given Award Posthumously

TORONTO (AP) — The second Kiwanis International Award for Decency in Motion Picture Programing was made posthumously Tuesday to Walt Disney.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The national convention of the Congress of Racial Equality, billed by organization leaders as "one of our most important in recent history," opened here today with a number of civil rights leaders and other dignitaries scheduled to participate.

"Strategy, tactics and programs for nationalism and liberation will be the tone of the convention," said Wilfred T. Ussery, CORE's national chairman, in outlining plans for the five-day convention.

Among national Negro figures expected to attend various stages of the convention are Whitney Young, executive director of the National Urban League; Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP; Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland; Mayor Richard T. Hatcher of Gary, Ind.; former baseball great Jackie Robinson and former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammed Ali (Cassius Clay).

Ussery said Tuesday one of the highlights of the convention will be a rally Saturday night to discuss the relevancy of presidential candidates to black people.

Robinson, a supporter of Nelson Rockefeller, has been invited to discuss the New York governor's candidacy. Mayor Stokes has been asked to represent Vice President Hubert Humphrey, whom he supports.

Ussery noted that former Alabama Gov. George Wallace has a speaking engagement scheduled here Sunday afternoon about the time the CORE convention ends.

But he said CORE is "not interested in countering" the Wallace rally. He added, however, that Wallace was welcome to send a black representative to the Saturday night meeting on presidential candidates.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board has urged that airline pilots be prohibited from using radar to try to steer their way through storm areas.

Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell Jr. said Tuesday the board believes there has been a tendency by some pilots to use airborne weather radar for deliberate penetration instead of weather avoidance as intended.

The board recommended that the Federal Aviation Administration amend regulations to prohibit pentration of thunderstorm activity in areas where severe thunderstorms or tornadoes have been forecast.

It also recommended that until standards are developed, pilots be required to avoid such storms by at least 20 nautical miles, about 23 statute miles.

'Murf The Surf' Declared Insane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Accused Jewel thief Jack "Murf the Surf" Murphy, charged in the death of a former Ohio woman, was declared legally insane Tuesday night in Miami, Fla.

Criminal Court Judge Carling Steinman canceled the Whiskey Creek murder trial and a robbery trial involving Murphy after declaring him mentally incompetent to stand trial.

A psychiatrist testified during the 13-hour hearing that Murphy suffers from extreme mental disorders, is extremely dangerour and belongs in a mental hospital. Dr. David Rothenberg also said Murphy considers himself a modern day Robin Hood.

The Whiskey Creek murder trial in adjoining Broward County involved the deaths of Terry Rae Kent Frank and Annalie Mohn, whose mutilated bodies were found weighted down in the creek last December.

Marie Leona Rowley Wed In Georgetown Ceremony

MRS. JAMES McLAUGHLIN
Residing Near Hookstown.

Miss Marie Leona Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Rowley of East Liverpool, became the bride of James Richard McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garner of Hookstown, the afternoon of June 15 in the United Methodist Church at Georgetown.

The Rev. Alexander Haines performed the double - ring ceremony. Mrs. Louis Wagner, organist, presented pre-nuptial music. Mrs. Harry McLaughlin, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was soloist. Baskets of white flowers adorned the altar.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white nylon and lace. The fitted bodice featured a self bow in the back and bell-shaped lace sleeves. The skirt fell in tiers of lace in the front. A chapel train was trimmed in pearls and sequins as was the neckline.

Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a princess headpiece of lace accented with pearls and sequins.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis, orchids and ivy.

Mrs. William Price of East Liverpool, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a full-length gown of yellow chiffon with a flowered belt in green and yellow which showed a self-bow in the back.

A tiara secured veiling of matching material.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow carnations and lily-of-the-valley.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph Cathell of Wellsville and Miss Susan Goodlin of Hookstown. They wore gowns of chiffon over taffeta with floral designs accenting the waistlines. Mrs. Cathell wore turquoise blue. Miss Goodlin appeared in lime green. Their headpieces were tiaras securing veiling.

Colonial bouquets of yellow carnations and lily-of-the-valley, were carried by the attendants.

Nancy Lee McLaughlin of Hookstown, a niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl in a floor-length yellow frock. A floral headband completed her attire. She carried a small basket of rose petals.

John McLaughlin of Hookstown, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were William Price of East Liverpool, brother-in-law of the bride, and George Rowley of Georgetown, a cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a yellow crepe dress with white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom chose a blue lace frock with white accessories. both wore white carnation corsages.

A RECEPTION for 100 followed in the Eagle's Hall, East Liverpool. A blue and white color scheme was used.

The bride's table was centered with a four-tier wedding cake, with white swans separating the layers. Mrs. William Rowley of Belpre, grandmother of the bride, presided at the refreshment table.

Music for dancing was provided by "Bill and the U. S. Males." Aides were Mrs. Ralph Lones, Mrs. Gilmer Smith and Mrs. Howard Brindley.

The bride was graduated from Beaver Local High School last spring. Her husband was graduated in 1964 from South Side High School. He is employed by the Bethlehem Steel Co. at Leetsdale, Pa.

They are residing at the Maxwell Trailer Park on Route 168, near Hookstown.

Parade Set Thursday At Manchester

Various prizes will be awarded during the tri-state area children's parade Thursday at New Manchester.

Mrs. Earl Priest, chairman, said awards will be made in the following categories:

Best marching group; best costumed group; best tricycle rider, boy and girl; best bicycle rider, boy and girl; best pony and cart; best pony and rider; best horse and rider; best individual costume; best coaster wagon float, and best large float.

The event will begin at 7 p.m., with all marchers assembling at the New Manchester Elementary School. Tricycle riders will meet at the grange hall there.

A king and queen will be crowned by the penny-a-vote method during this third annual parade. Proceeds will be used to pay for the prizes.

Extended Phone Service Studied

LISBON — Extension of telephone service from the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges (General Telephone Co. of Ohio) to the Lisbon exchange (Ohio Bell) is under consideration.

James Fought of Minerva, Minerva district customer representative for General, met at the Courthouse Tuesday afternoon with Charles J. Gause, chairman of the county commissioners; State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon and Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis, a former member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Fought said Hanoverton and Winona each has over 700 main stations (telephones with numbers not county extensions). He estimated toll - free service between the two exchanges and Lisbon would cost an additional 25 cents per month for home subscribers and more for commercial or business phones.

Exact costs will have to await studies by General's engineers. Then, representatives of General will make a random sampling survey in the Hanoverton and Winona exchanges to find out if subscribers desire the extension.

Winona already has extended service with Salem — an Ohio Bell exchange.

Walt Disney Given Award Posthumously

TORONTO (AP) — The second Kiwanis International Award for Decency in Motion Picture Programing was made posthumously Tuesday to Walt Disney.

James M. Moler, president of Kiwanis International, said Disney brightened the lives of millions of people around the world since he introduced Mickey Mouse in 1927.

The award was accepted by David Tomlinson, who played the father in Disney's Mary Poppins.

Shirley Temple was the first recipient of the award in Houston, Tex., last year.

About 20,000 Kiwanians are in Toronto for their 53rd annual convention which ends today.

Computer Being Used For Heart Detection

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri University spokesman said Tuesday the first application outside a laboratory of computer detection of heart ailments is operating experimentally in six Missouri cities.

Financed by federal funds through the University of Missouri, the project called the Automated Electrocardiogram System is being tried in Columbia, Springfield, Trenton, Kansas City, Boonville and Cardwell.

Using long-distance telephone lines, electrical impulses from a patient's heart are transmitted to a computer at the University Medical Center here.

The computer analyzes the electrocardiogram signals and replies by news printer whether the heart action is normal.

Newell Firemen Receive Reports

Reports on two fires were given by Newell Fire Chief Earl Flesch during a meeting of the department Monday night at the fire hall.

A brush fire Monday at the rear of Wells Junior High School at 12:30 p. m. caused no damage, though a flash fire at 3:30 p. m. at the Edward Heath home on Glendale Rd. did result in some. The two are still under investigation. The fire at Heath's began in the kitchen.

Eleven firemen and one retired fireman were present. The firemen thanked area residents for their help in making the annual carnival a success.

The chief was given permission to buy 300 feet of 2½-inch hose.

Flesch reminded residents a drive for the upkeep of equipment will resume in the community.

A committee appointed for the annual family picnic Aug. 18 includes Dick Rayburn, Jim Norris, Ed Tice, Ed Childs and Pearley Adkins.

Chester Man Treated; Claims Attack By Pair

James Landis, 29, of 168 Montana Ave., Chester, was treated at City Hospital at 12:44 a. m. today for a superficial wound of the abdomen which he told police was suffered when he was attacked on Broadway by two unidentified men.

Landis told police one of the men "cut him" with some sort of instrument. The incident first was reported to police at 12:22 when Landis went to the hospital for treatment. Patrolman Robert Duffy, desk officer, dispatched Patrolman James Buckley to investigate.

When Buckley arrived at the hospital, he found Landis had departed. Twenty-two minutes later, as Buckley was cruising on E. 6th St., Landis halted him, told the story of the attack and was taken back to the hospital for treatment.

One Of Quintuplets Claimed At Hospital

EAST LONDON, South Africa (AP) — Zoleka, the eldest of East London's 2-year-old Tukutese quintuplets, died Tuesday shortly after she was admitted to the Frere Hospital with suspected inflammation of the brain.

A hospital spokesman said the cause of death could not be determined until after the postmortem.

The other quints—three boys and one girl—were reported well but they will be taken to the hospital today for examination, the spokesman said.

The quints were born Feb. 26, 1966, to Mrs. Nogesi Tukutese.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

The Tasty 'Pig-Taters'

DEAR HELOISE: I have long been an admirer of yours and have gotten a big kick out of your column.

Heloise

Now you are kind enough to ask me to give your readers my recipe for "Pig-Taters" which I have cooked on several TV shows.

Well, here goes. . . .

1 medium size potato (Irish or Sweet)

Link or bulk sausage

Scrub that tater and bore a hole almost to other end with an apple corer. Then stuff your link sausage (or bulk) right in the hole. Grease the tater, wrap it in aluminum foil and bake until good and done.

Please let me say "How-deee!" to all of your friends. I am one of your biggest fans, Heloise. Keep the good work going!

MINNIE PEARL.

Yes, folks, this is the REAL Minnie Pearl of the "The Grand Old Opry" TV show! And thanks oodles for them thar kind words, Minnie.

Just as soon as I received her letter, I flitted right into the kitchen to bake some of Minnie's "Pig-Taters." I tried both large Irish bakers and big sweet potatoes, as well as bulk, precooked and regular link sausage. Here's what I did:

First I cut the pointed ends off the sweet potatoes. Then cut some of both kinds (Irish & Sweet) in half crosswise. Next I cored them clear through and stuffed the openings — some with link and some with the bulk sausage. (Easier to do this way because it speeds up the baking time and cook the sausage better, too.) Some of you may wish to parboil your sausage first, but it isn't necessary.

Then I put the two potatoes halves back together, greased and wrapped 'em in foil. A few I left unwrapped so the skins would be nice and crispy the way I like 'em. And a few others I left whole, cored 'em clear through and stuffed.

Then I put them all in a baking dish to keep the juices from dripping down on the oven floor. I turned them over ONCE halfway through the baking period.

Umm, ummm, did those taters melt in my mouth! The sweet potatoes were especially scrumptious. The sausage was done to perfection and had seasoned the potatoes just right. I simply ate them "as is," but you could add salt, pepper and butter — any way you like 'em.

The ones cooked whole I cut in thick slices crosswise and lay them flat on my plate for serving. They looked real pretty with the sausage in the center.

Some day when you're in a potato-baking mood, try it. You'll have your meat and potatoes cooked all in one operation and I'll guarantee that your family will really go for this dish.

And Minnie, a great big hug and kiss from all of us for taking the time to send us your fantabulous "Pig-Taters" recipe.

We all just love YA!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I am a new mother who has found a wonderful way to save money on nursing pads. The disposable ones that you buy are almost a dollar for just two dozen and you go through that many in a few days.

So I bought two yards of white, all-purpose flannel and cut out four-inch circles using a bowl for a pattern. Then I took four circles and sewed them together in two places to keep them together.

I was able to make about 18 reusable pads for about a dollar. They are just as absorbent and just as comfortable as the others and wash easily.

BARBARA H.

DEAR HELOISE: When you have regular milk in the plastic-coated cartons and wish to make chocolate milk for the children, pour a little of the milk out. Then put chocolate (either syrup or powder) in the carton, close the top and shake vigorously.

No messy glass-by-glass mixing and stirring or dripping, drippy chocolate syrup.

Low Bids Listed By Mental Clinic Board In Beaver

A report of low bids for the construction of the proposed Community Mental Health Center of Beaver County was made at a meeting of the directors of the Mental Hygiene Clinic of Beaver County Monday at the Baker Building in West Bridgewater.

Apparent low bidders are: Navarro Corp., $957,000, general construction; McCarl's Plumbing and Heating Co., two bids, $229,000, heating, ventilating and air - conditioning construction, and $107,970, plumbing construction; Aliquippa Electric Service, $171,000, electrical construction, and Gateway Kitchen Equipment and Supplies, Inc., $16,441, food service construction.

Bids were referred to Joseph F. Bontempo, architect, for recommendation.

The board hired Dr. Robert Sone of Pittsburgh, who has been with the clinic several months, as full-time psychologist, starting Aug. 1. The board also hired Miss Stana Litwin of Rochester as secretary and Mrs. Lester Cobner of Beaver as assistant bookkeeper.

Dr. Robert Yee, clinic director, reported 732 interviews were conducted during May. There were 76 additions for the month, including new patients: 29 children and 38 adults, and readmissions: one child and eight adults. Terminated patients totaled 90, including 34 children and 56 adults.

Atty. Peter O. Steege of Beaver Falls presided.

Litter 'Explosion'

NEW YORK (AP) — Keep America Beautiful, Inc., estimated today that a holiday litter "explosion" during the Fourth of July weekend would cause enough fallout—13½ million cubic feet of litter on highways and other public areas of the nation—to fill a firecracker taller than the Empire State Building.

The DOCTOR Says

By Dr. W. G. Brandstadt

Tension May Aggravate Ileitis

Q—What is crohn's disease? My aunt was operated on for this two years ago but now another operation is necessary.

Dr. Brandstadt

A — Crohn's disease regional ileitis or regional enteritis) is an inflammation of isolated areas of the ileum or lower part of the small intestine. In about one - third of the victims who have an acute attack, recovery is complete. In the rest, the disease becomes chronic. Almost half of these from whom the diseased areas are removed have recurrences.

Q—What causes ileitis? Is it the same as colitis? Is it hard for a doctor to detect it in its early stages? Is surgery necessary? Is there a specific diet for it? Are the nerves or the mentality damaged by it? Is it hereditary?

A—The cause is unknown but nervous tension and a diet high in roughage will aggravate it. It is similar to colitis, which is an inflammation of the colon or large intestine. It is not hard to diagnose if a doctor considers it in a patient who has chronic diarrhea, fever, loss of weight, abdominal cramps, blood in the stools and an iron - deficiency anemia, and if he rules out other conditions that produce similar findings.

A BLAND, low - residue diet is an important part of the treatment. The disease does not affect the victim's nerves or mentality and it is not hereditary.

Q—I have ileitis and am on a bland diet. Would smoking be harmful?

A—Although no direct connection has been shown, many patients with ileitis say they have less abdominal discomfort when they give up smoking.

Q—I had an operation 10 years ago for ileitis and have been taking Medrol ever since. Does it cause any bad side affects? Should I be taking calcium pills so that my bones won't get soft? I still get attacks of cramping and bloating. Can anything be done for this?

A—Since methylprednisolone (Medrol) is of the cortisone group of drugs its prolonged use may cause moon face, peptic ulcer and loss of calcium from your bones. Your treatment with this drug should be intermittent and you should be taking both calcium and phosphorus.

NOT ALL PERSONS with ileitis can be made comfortable, but careful medical supervision and, in addition to the other forms of treatment mentioned, the judicious use of antibiotics should make you reasonably comfortable most of the time.

—:—

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Service Offered To Sheep Men In Three Counties

LISBON — Custom sheep dipping and drenching services will be offered this month to sheep producers of Columbiana, Mahoning and Carroll counties.

The Tri - County Executive Committee selected Simon Dudgeon of Gambier to perform these services on the following schedule:

Carroll — July 10-12; Columbiana — July 15-17, and Mahoning — July 18-20.

Paul H. Gipp of the Columbiana County Extension Office said Dudgeon will use toxaphene as the insecticide for dipping at 25 cents per head.

Shepherds will have a choice of drenches — phenothiazine and thiabendazole at 20 and 25 per cents per head, respectively, for drenching alone or 15 and 20 cents if the sheep are also dipped.

Gipp said a minimum charge of $5 per stop will be made. He encouraged producers with less than 20 head of sheep to pool the flocks with a neighbor.

He said producers who have not already received notice of the service from their county extension office should call the office by July 5 if they are interested. He reminded them that 28 days must elapse between dipping and marketing.

Students File Suit To Avoid Prosecution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Black Student Union at Ohio State University have gone to U.S. District Court in an effort to halt prosecution in the April takeover of the OSU administration building.

Local NAACP and American Civil Liberties Union officials are furnishing counsel in the students' action for a court order against prosecution by state county and University officials.

Defendants in the suit, filed Tuesday, include Franklin County Prosecutor C. Howard Johnson, who pushed successfully for an indictment of the 34 Negro students involved in the takeover, OSU President Novice Fawcett, OSU Vice President Gordon Carson, school Student Relations Director John Bonner and the board of trustees.

The suit also names Gov. James A. Rhodes, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, Ohio Highway Patrol Supt. Robert M. Chiaramonte and Franklin County Sheriff Stacy Hall.

Black Student Union members contend they were pursuing legitimate goals by legitimate means in the April 26 takeover.

In June, 1966, the Johns installed an electric heat pump—the central unit that heats and cools flamelessly. It now costs them $32 a month—instead of $31—to heat and completely air condition their 7-room home, refrigerate and cook their food, wash their dishes, wash and dry clothes, heat water, and do everything else the convenient total-electric way.

Find out for yourself just how much flameless electric heating would cost in your own home with a free, no-obligation estimate from Ohio Power. You'll probably like it as well as Mr. John, who says, "We've had every type of heating, but this total-electric way is the best yet!"

South Side's Board OK's Repair Work

The Board of Directors of South Side Beaver Jointure Monday night awarded contracts for high school repairs and rehired football and basketball coaches.

A contract for repairing a curtain wall at the front of South Side High School was awarded to Istock Inc. of Aliquippa at $20,173. A contract for projected window repairs was awarded Mondany Brothers of Smiths Ferry at $3,100. Damage to the wall and the windows was caused by heavy rain.

Donald Charlton of East Liverpool was rehired as head football coach and was named athletic director. Both positions were given on three - year contracts.

John Nace of Beaver Falls will continue as head basketball coach on a three - year contract.

The directors accepted an insurance program for students and football players. Elmo B. Cecchetti of Arnold, Pa., is agent for the Adeptic Management Services Inc. of Harrisburg who will provide the coverage.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Lois Ann Swearingen, secretary to the supervising principal, effective July 31. She will be married. Victor F. Thomas Jr., supervising principal, is accepting applications for the position.

The board decided that auditors for the next school year will be from Hanover Twp., Georgetown Borough and Shippingport Borough. The representative from Hanover Township will serve as chairman of the three-member board.

Directors discussed the possibility of providing a summer recreation program for junior and senior high school students with all supervision to be voluntary.

The board will meet Aug. 5 at 8 p. m.

Dates Are Changed For Band Rehearsal

Rehearsals for the Chester Junior High School Band, originally scheduled to begin Aug. 5, have been changed to Aug. 19, Richard Evans, director, has announced.

The eighth and ninth - grade band will meet at 9:30 a. m. and the seventh-grade band at 11 a. m.

ANN LANDERS

Can't Make Good Coffee

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'll come right to the point and not try to make excuses for myself. The plain truth is that I've been married for four years and I do not know how to make a decent cup of coffee.

I've blamed the pot, the water, the brand of coffee, and finally, the stove. I've gone from percolator to drip to electric to the open pot method. I've tried nine different brands of coffee and have even bought coffee beans and ground them myself. The results are the same. Rotten coffee.

What's wrong with a woman who can bake a Danish torte and prepare baked Alaska but can't make a good cup of coffee? — HATE MYSELF.

Dear Sell: The simplest things are the ones that can drive a person nuts. I know how you feel. I can't make gelatin.

I don't know what you are doing wrong, but perhaps some of the great coffee makers in my reading audience will come up with some homey hints. How about it, girls? If there's a coffee secret out there, please spill it.

Gift List

Dear Ann: What I have to say will apply to thousands of married children, not just our own. I hope I can express myself well enough so you'll print my letter.

A few weeks before Christmas, our anniversary, Mother's Day, Father's Day, and so on, the phone calls start — first from the daughters, then the daughters-in-law. They all ask, "What can we buy you?"

Of course I can't tell them that what we really want is not for sale. An invitation to a family meal with everyday chatter would be more delicious than a seven-course banquet in the finest restaurant.

An offer to drive us to town once in awhile so we wouldn't have to fight the heavy traffic and park in a lot and feed meters would be pure heaven.

Even a 10-minute phone call that is not a request to babysit, but a call just to visit, would be a rare treat.

What a joy it would be if our children would ask us to join them at the theater one night, or the symphony, or a movie — just knowing they thought of us would be a lift.

I guess what I'm trying to say is thoughtfulness and consideration are the best gifts of all. — MARRIED 40 YEARS.

Dear Married: Thanks for your letter. And to the married kids in the reading audience I say, "If the shoe fits — wear it."

Blind Alley

Dear Ann: I'm in love with a married man.

It all started innocently. When he told me he loved me, I knew I loved him, too. The third time we went out of town together he admitted he was married, so you see he's honest.

His marriage was a shotgun type. He never loved his wife and they have been living like brother and sister for two years. He decided to get a divorce a year before I came along.

I want to marry this man but I don't want people to think I broke up his marriage. How can I protect my reputation? — MISS D.

Dear D.: If the marriage is dead and you don't want to be accused of killing it, don't hang around the corpse. Tell him when he's a free man to call you up. And don't hold your breath waiting for the phone to ring, Baby.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SALINEVILLE — The ONC Club of Salineville will meet Tuesday night with Mrs. Marilyn Slagle as hostess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sweeney.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baker and daughter of Canton visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sweeney, Saturday.

Mrs. Frances Golem of Parma has concluded a visit with her mother, Mrs. Agnes Rutkowski.

Charles Sweeney and son, Paul, were called to Cleveland Sunday when a brother, Joseph Sweeney, suffered a serious heart attack.

Officer Says Guns Stored In Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — A policeman has told Senate probers that a Presbyterian minister lied under oath when he testified he wasn't asked to turn over to Chicago police a gang arsenal stored in his church.

"The Rev. (John R.) Fry was not telling the truth when he said I did not ask for the guns," Sgt. Neal Wilson told the permanent Senate investigations subcommittee. "I say it did occur."

"There is a serious conflict of evidence here and it will be a surprise to many if we have a minister telling untruths," said Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

"But somebody here is deliberately, wilfully perjuring themselves before this subcommittee," he added. "And I hope the guilty person will have to face the bar of justice and get what he deserves."

The Rev. Fry, testifying before the subcommittee last week, defended a $927,000 Office of Economic Opportunity grant to provide basic education and job training to members of two Chicago street gangs—the Blackstone Rangers and the Devils Disciples.

He denied flatly allegations by former gang members and others that while allowing the Rangers to headquarter in his First Presbyterian church on Chicago's South Side he also counseled them in crime and condoned marijuana smoking and other illegal activities.

Chicago police detectives Tuesday described 1966 efforts by local and federal officials to arrange a general surrender of gang weapons.

They said they considered the final result only a token effort and believed the gang's real arsenal was hidden elsewhere.

Fry insisted the weapons turned in be stored in the church's vault for 30 days because the Rangers might need them to protect their territory.

They said Fry insisted the weapons turned in be stored in the church's vault for 30 days because the Rangers might need them to protect their territory.

The weapons were eventually seized in a police raid on the church.

County Supervisors Drop Gun Law Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Plans to draft a gun-control law have been dropped by county supervisors in Los Angeles where Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot to death.

The supervisors were advised by the county counsel Tuesday that only state or federal legislation could be effective. Supervisor Ernest E. Debs said, "It would be ridiculous for the county and its 77 cities to adopt individual ordinances."

The Indians have survived without their annual "June swoon."

The Tribe went 16-16 in June and moved up from third place at the beginning of the month to second place now. The Tigers, however, set a hot pace in June, and Cleveland dropped from three games back to 7½ behind.

The question is, will Cleveland be able to narrow the gap or even keep pace with Detroit. The Tigers have had key men, notably Al Kaline and Earl Wilson, out with injuries, and with this pair back in the lineup the Tigers should be stronger. Cleveland, on the other hand, may be heading for a fall.

PITCHING HAS been the strong point of Alvin Dark's club. No one on the team is hitting over .274, and the team average is .226. The starting fivesome of Luis Tiant, Sonny Siebert, Sam McDowell, Stan Williams and Steve Hargan is called the best in the league, but lately there have been some problems. Hargan has been routed early his last two or three starts, and there is some question about the soundness of his arm. Dark is using Williams in relief. McDowell has only a .500 record and Siebert has been having his troubles, including being mugged in Boston (on the street, not by the Red Sox). Only Tiant is pitching consistently excellent ball, and excellent pitching is what is needed to win with the Tribe's weak attack.

The bullpen has not been a strongpoint. Eddie Fisher has been a disappointment and rookies Hal Kurtz and Mike Paul have yet to show that they are consistent stoppers. Vincente Romo, called up from Portland last week, was impressive in his debut, and maybe he is the answer. The hottest part of the summer is left, and the hitters will catch up to the pitchers to some extent. Detroit has the hitters.

Bucs Nip Mets 2-1, Climb To Fourth

By MURRAY CHASS

Juan Marichal apparently has nothing to fear from the rest of the National League in his quest for a 30-game season. It's his injury incidence he has to worry about.

Marichal, whose greatness has been hampered only by a series of injuries, breezed to his 15th victory against three defeats Tuesday night, pitching a five-hitter as San Francisco defeated Atlanta 5-0.

The triumph gave Marichal a victory over every team in the league, made him the winningest pitcher in the majors and placed him at the halfway mark in his effort to become the first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean in 1934.

In other games, St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 5-3, Houston blanked Cincinnati 2-0, Pittsburgh edged New York 2-1 and Chicago defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

For Marichal, a four-time 20-game winner, this is the earliest he's ever won his 15th. Previously, the earliest he reached this point was July 15, 1966.

But in that season, as in all but one, 1963, the 29-year-old right-hander lost some pitching time because of injuries.

The victory over the Braves was his first against them since Sept. 26, 1966. Willie Mays provided much of the support, rapping three straight hits, including a run-scoring single and a bunt single that set up another run.

Mike Shannon's run-scoring single in the eighth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and sparked the Cardinals past Los Angeles. Larry Jaster had a one-hit shutout until the Dodgers erupted for three runs in the seventh, two on Jim Lefebvre's triple.

Denny Lemaster limited Cincinnati to four hits in bringing only two hits, but they were aided by two wild pitches by Gerry Arrigo and two errors by Tommy Helms.

Pittsburgh edged New York on Bud Harrelson's two-out error in the ninth inning. Donn Clendenon scored from third when Harrelson lost Manny Mota's grounder.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins doubled in two runs in the eighth inning, then survived a ninth-inning rally by Philadelphia. John Briggs socked a two-run homer for the Phillies in the ninth. In the first inning the Cubs scored two unearned runs with the help of an error by Briggs.

Mays, Alley, M. Alou Named To NL All-Stars

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie Mays was named to the All-Star team for the 15th consecutive year today as National League Manager Red Schoendienst completed his squad for the July 9 game.

Mays, the colorful San Francisco Giants' center fielder, will be making his 19th appearance in the summer classic, which will be played this year in the Houston Astrodome against the American League All Stars.

From 1959 through 1962 when two games were played each year, Mays appeared in all eight.

Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, went along with the player balloting in adding nine more players.

He chose all eight runners-up at each position and selected rookie catcher John Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, who finished third behind starter Jerry Grote of the New York Mets and Tom Haller of Los Angeles.

Others picked besides Mays, Bench and Haller on the 25-man squad were:

First baseman Rusty Staub of the Houston Astros, a .311 hitter with 43 runs batted in and four home runs; second baseman Julian Javier, St. Louis, .256; shortstop Gene Alley, Pittsburgh, shortstop, .236; third baseman Tony Perez, Cincinnati, .253, 46 RBI and eight homers.

Also outfielders Matty Alou, Pittsburgh, the league leading hitter with a .353 mark, and brother Felipe Alou, Atlanta, .303.

Bench is batting .268 with 43 RBI and seven homers while Haller is hitting .291.

Pitchers already chosen by Schoendienst are San Francisco's Juan Marichal, Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton of the Cardinals, Jerry Koosman and Tom Seaver of the Mets, Woody Fryman of Philadelphia and Ron Reed of Atlanta.

The starting line-up will have the Giants' Willie McCovey at first, Cincinnati's Tommy Helms at second, Chicago's Don Kessinger at short and the Cubs' Ron Santo at third. In the outfield will be the Reds' Pete Rose, Curt Flood of the Cards and Atlanta's Hank Aaron with Grote catching.

Schoendienst also named manager Dave Bristol of Cincinnati and Herman Franks of the Giants as coaches.

Ashe, Graebner Make Semis

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner U.S. Davis Cup stars with the booming services, set out today to try to save the All-England Club $4,320.

That is what would happen if the two Americans defeated their Australian professional opponents to reach the final of the first Open Wimbledon Tennis Tournament.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., faced Rod Laver, the Wimbledon champion of 1961 and 1962. Graebner, of New York City, had to play Tony Roche.

There are prizes at stake of $4,800 for the winner and $3,120 for the runner-up. But Ashe and Graebner, as amateurs, are competing for expenses only and can accept the gift vouchers worth $240.

If Laver and Roche lose in the semifinals, they will pick up only $1,300 each. The unclaimed prize money would then go back into the pot.

The success of the amateurs is one reason why officials are happy over the outcome of the first Open Wimbledon Tournament. They've been saved plenty of money by the success of amateurs over pros.

Ashe helped the Wimbledon kitty Tuesday by knocking out Tom Okker of The Netherlands 7-9, 9-7, 9-7, 6-2 in the quarter-finals. Okker ranks as an amateur and plays on his country's Davis Cup team, but was competing here for prize money with the approval of the Dutch Tennis Federation. As a losing quarter-finalist, he won only $960.

Graebner, piling up the points with his big service, hammered amateur Ray Moore of South Africa 6-2, 6-0, 9-7. Both were unseeded.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the defending champion, faced an old rival in Mrs. Lesley Turner Bowry of Australia in the women's quarter-finals.

The rest of the women's quarter-finalists lined up like this: Mrs. Margaret Smith Court, Australia vs. Judy Tegart, Australia; Nancy Richey, San Angelo, Tex., vs. Maria Bueno, Brazil; Mrs. Ann Jones, professional, Britain, vs. Francoise Durr, professional, France.

FRANK MELCHIORRE

Melchiorre Takes Job At St. Clairsville

Frank Melchiorre, assistant basketball coach at East Liverpool High School for the past two seasons, was named head coach at St. Clairsville High last night.

Melchiorre compiled an unbeaten record in 1966-67 in 17 games and the reserves went 10-8 last season. Prior to that he had coached two years in junior high here, with a 30-6 mark.

Melchiorre, 32, is a native of Monaca, Pa., and a graduate of Geneva College. He played basketball at Monaca High and at Geneva. He is married and has two children.

Melchiorre said he regarded the move as a step up. He noted that basketball has not been too much emphasized at St. Clairsville and thought that a rebuilding program would be needed. St. Clairsville had a losing season last year. The school, 10 miles west of Martins Ferry, is a member of the Ohio Valley Athletic Conference. In addition to acoaching, Melchiorre will teach social science.

Sevy's bombed Littens 14-3 in a Pony League game at Beaver Local last night.

Dave Kyle and Larry Parsons each had three hits, including a triple, to lead the attack. Jim Anderson had two hits and scored four times ,and Linville had a double and single. Jim Cheeks added a triple. Gary Cunningham tripled for the losers.

George Hall was the winner. Tony Williams took the loss.

In another game Burbick's whipped Woodbine's 13-1 as the teams concluded regular-season play.

Tigers Keep Rolling, Widen Lead To 8½

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

A couple of American League managers have proclaimed in recent days that Detroit's rampaging Tigers are due for a siege of misfortune any old day now.

Don't hold your breath.

Willie Horton's first-inning single Tuesday night delivered a pair of runs that helped the Tigers to a 3-1 conquest of California—their seventh in eight games.

And, Detroit's lead was widened to 8½ games over Cleveland when the Indians were victimized 6-0 by Minnesota.

Boston came from behind to nip Oakland 4-3 in the only other league game. Rain postponed the New York at Washington and Chicago at Baltimore games.

Tiger right-hander Earl Wilson picked up his sixth victory in 11 decisions but had to constantly pitch out of trouble.

Horton staked him to the early lead after Jim Northrup doubled and Norm Cash walked, then both advanced on a wild pitch.

California's Jim Fregosi ran his hitting streak to 12 games with a solo homer in the eighth, his seventh of the year.

Minnesota's Jim Kaat blanked the Indians despite giving up seven hits. The Twins put it out of doubt in the fourth when Jack Hernandez doubled in two runs and Cesar Tovar and Jim Holt each singled in one.

Frank Quilici's sacrifice fly accounted for a run in the fifth, and Ted Uhlaender tripled for another tally in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson's two-run double in the eighth rescued Boston after the Athletics had taken a 3-2 lead. Dalton Jones, who scored twice, helped out with two singles and a double.

Blair-Morse journeyed to Malvern for an exhibition game last night and won 5-0. Kim Kemple, George Whitaker and Steve Murray combined for the shutout, with Kemple the winner. Whitaker slugged a bases-loaded triple to lead the attack, with Vic Reed getting two hits. Lee Zartman was the loser.

The Lawyers downed Central Service 6-3 at the Colt Field. Jim Booher was the winner and Don Smith the loser. Arnett had two doubles and Bruce Diddle one and Talkington two hits for the winners. McKinnon and Fred Brown doubled for the losers.

NFL Players Strike Becomes More Likely

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's nothing official, but the ingredients are beginning to stack up for a strike by National Football League players.

Officially, the players are saying nothing. That's through attorney Dan Shulman, counsel for the NFL Players Association.

Unofficially, there are numerous reports of strike talk by the players.

And time is running out. Rookies are scheduled to begin reporting for practice next week. Veterans will report later. Reporting dates vary for each club. The exhibition season is less than a month away.

The player representatives and an owners' group failed to come to an agreement at their super secret meeting in Detroit last weekend.

Art Modell, NFL president and owner of the Cleveland Browns, broke the long silence with a prepared statement in Cleveland Tuesday.

"We regret exceedingly that the players have rejected the results of the very fruitful negotiations we had in Detroit on Friday and Saturday," Modell's statement said. "We think, perhaps, the players may not have fully understood our position."

In Chicago, Shulman said: "We have agreed to no comments in the press and we intend, at least for the present, to adhere to that."

Among other things, the players are seeking improved pension benefits, $500 for each exhibition game, and a guaranteed minimum salary, such as exists in baseball.

Newell Tops Hanover 15-4

Newell whipped Hanover 15-4 in a South Side Athletic Club baseball league senior division game at Newell Tuesday night.

Ron Heffner was the winner, fanning 15. He also led the attack with a double and single. Dave Jividen had two hits and Rick Knicely a triple. Larry Cox took the loss. Cox and Larry Lockhart had two hits each.

The Midland American Legion baseball team split two games over the weekend, losing at Highland 8-2 Saturday and beating New Brighton 4-2 at Midland Sunday.

George Mravoic took the loss against Highland. Midland got only three hits, one a home run by Greg Braund. Greg Musgrave was the winner.

Mraovic came back Sunday to go the distance and get the win. He struck out eight, including two with the bases loaded in the third.

Boyce Wins Doubleheader

Boyce Methodist downed Chester Nazarene twice in a doubleheader at Hookstown last night, 9-2 and 11-0.

Perry Gilson was the winner in both games, with Baker taking the loss in both contests. Pete Webb had four hits to pace the attack in the first game and Gary Oakes and Bill Taylor had three hits each in the nightcap. Boyce is in first place in the Church Softball League.

The Indians have survived without their annual "June swoon."

The Tribe went 16-16 in June and moved up from third place at the beginning of the month to second place now. The Tigers, however, set a hot pace in June, and Cleveland dropped from three games back to 7½ behind.

The question is, will Cleveland be able to narrow the gap or even keep pace with Detroit. The Tigers have had key men, notably Al Kaline and Earl Wilson, out with injuries, and with this pair back in the lineup the Tigers should be stronger. Cleveland, on the other hand, may be heading for a fall.

PITCHING HAS been the strong point of Alvin Dark's club. No one on the team is hitting over .274, and the team average is .226. The starting fivesome of Luis Tiant, Sonny Siebert, Sam McDowell, Stan Williams and Steve Hargan is called the best in the league, but lately there have been some problems. Hargan has been routed early his last two or three starts, and there is some question about the soundness of his arm. Dark is using Williams in relief. McDowell has only a .500 record and Siebert has been having his troubles, including being mugged in Boston (on the street, not by the Red Sox). Only Tiant is pitching consistently excellent ball, and excellent pitching is what is needed to win with the Tribe's weak attack.

The bullpen has not been a strongpoint. Eddie Fisher has been a disappointment and rookies Hal Kurtz and Mike Paul have yet to show that they are consistent stoppers. Vincente Romo, called up from Portland last week, was impressive in his debut, and maybe he is the answer. The hottest part of the summer is left, and the hitters will catch up to the pitchers to some extent. Detroit has the hitters.

Bucs Nip Mets 2-1, Climb To Fourth

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal apparently has nothing to fear from the rest of the National League in his quest for a 30-game season. It's his injury incidence he has to worry about.

Marichal, whose greatness has been hampered only by a series of injuries, breezed to his 15th victory against three defeats Tuesday night, pitching a five-hitter as San Francisco defeated Atlanta 5-0.

The triumph gave Marichal a victory over every team in the league, made him the winningest pitcher in the majors and placed him at the halfway mark in his effort to become the first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean in 1934.

In other games, St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 5-3, Houston blanked Cincinnati 2-0, Pittsburgh edged New York 2-1 and Chicago defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

For Marichal, a four-time 20-game winner, this is the earliest he's ever won his 15th. Previously, the earliest he reached this point was July 15, 1966.

But in that season, as in all but one, 1963, the 29-year-old right-hander lost some pitching time because of injuries.

The victory over the Braves was his first against them since Sept. 26, 1966. Willie Mays provided much of the support, rapping three straight hits, including a run-scoring single and a bunt single that set up another run.

Mike Shannon's run-scoring single in the eighth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and sparked the Cardinals past Los Angeles. Larry Jaster had a one-hit shutout until the Dodgers erupted for three runs in the seventh, two on Jim Lefebvre's triple.

Denny Lemaster limited Cincinnati to four hits in bringing only two hits, but they were aided by two wild pitches by Gerry Arrigo and two errors by Tommy Helms.

Pittsburgh edged New York on Bud Harrelson's two-out error in the ninth inning. Donn Clendenon scored from third when Harrelson lost Manny Mota's grounder.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins doubled in two runs in the eighth inning, then survived a ninth-inning rally by Philadelphia. John Briggs socked a two-run homer for the Phillies in the ninth. In the first inning the Cubs scored two unearned runs with the help of an error by Briggs.

Mays, Alley, M. Alou Named To NL All-Stars

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie Mays was named to the All-Star team for the 15th consecutive year today as National League Manager Red Schoendienst completed his squad for the July 9 game.

Mays, the colorful San Francisco Giants' center fielder, will be making his 19th appearance in the summer classic, which will be played this year in the Houston Astrodome against the American League All Stars.

From 1959 through 1962 when two games were played each year, Mays appeared in all eight.

Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, went along with the player balloting in adding nine more players.

He chose all eight runners-up at each position and selected rookie catcher John Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, who finished third behind starter Jerry Grote of the New York Mets and Tom Haller of Los Angeles.

Others picked besides Mays, Bench and Haller on the 25-man squad were:

First baseman Rusty Staub of the Houston Astros, a .311 hitter with 43 runs batted in and four home runs; second baseman Julian Javier, St. Louis, .256; shortstop Gene Alley, Pittsburgh, shortstop, .236; third baseman Tony Perez, Cincinnati, .253, 46 RBI and eight homers.

Also outfielders Matty Alou, Pittsburgh, the league leading hitter with a .353 mark, and brother Felipe Alou, Atlanta, .303.

Bench is batting .268 with 43 RBI and seven homers while Haller is hitting .291.

Pitchers already chosen by Schoendienst are San Francisco's Juan Marichal, Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton of the Cardinals, Jerry Koosman and Tom Seaver of the Mets, Woody Fryman of Philadelphia and Ron Reed of Atlanta.

The starting line-up will have the Giants' Willie McCovey at first, Cincinnati's Tommy Helms at second, Chicago's Don Kessinger at short and the Cubs' Ron Santo at third. In the outfield will be the Reds' Pete Rose, Curt Flood of the Cards and Atlanta's Hank Aaron with Grote catching.

Schoendienst also named manager Dave Bristol of Cincinnati and Herman Franks of the Giants as coaches.

Tigers Keep Rolling, Widen Lead To 8½

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

A couple of American League managers have proclaimed in recent days that Detroit's rampaging Tigers are due for a siege of misfortune any old day now.

Don't hold your breath.

The Tigers are giving anything but an indication of a summer slump.

Willie Horton's first-inning single Tuesday night delivered a pair of runs that helped the Tigers to a 3-1 conquest of California—their seventh in eight games.

And, Detroit's lead was widened to 8½ games over Cleveland when the Indians were victimized 6-0 by Minnesota.

Boston came from behind to nip Oakland 4-3 in the only other league game. Rain postponed the New York at Washington and Chicago at Baltimore games.

Although the Tigers continue to make the race for first a hohum affair, a big logjam is developing for the runner-up spot. Only four games separate the Indians from the seventh-place Red Sox.

Tiger right-hander Earl Wilson picked up his sixth victory in 11 decisions but had to constantly pitch out of trouble.

Horton staked him to the early lead after Jim Northrup doubled and Norm Cash walked, then both advanced on a wild pitch.

Rookie Tom Matchick's first homer accounted for Detroit's other run in the seventh.

California's Jim Fregosi ran his hitting streak to 12 games with a solo homer in the eighth, his seventh of the year.

Minnesota's Jim Kaat blanked the Indians despite giving up seven hits. The Twins put it out of doubt in the fourth when Jack Hernandez doubled in two runs and Cesar Tovar and Jim Holt each singled in one.

Frank Quilici's sacrifice fly accounted for a run in the fifth, and Ted Uhlaender tripled for another tally in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson's two-run double in the eighth rescued Boston after the Athletics had taken a 3-2 lead. Dalton Jones, who scored twice, helped out with two singles and a double.

Ashe, Graebner Make Semis

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner U.S. Davis Cup stars with the booming services, set out today to try to save the All-England Club $4,320.

That is what would happen if the two Americans defeated their Australian professional opponents to reach the final of the first Open Wimbledon Tennis Tournament.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., faced Rod Laver, the Wimbledon champion of 1961 and 1962. Graebner, of New York City, had to play Tony Roche.

There are prizes at stake of $4,800 for the winner and $3,120 for the runner-up. But Ashe and Graebner, as amateurs, are competing for expenses only and can accept the gift vouchers worth $240.

If Laver and Roche lose in the semifinals, they will pick up only $1,300 each. The unclaimed prize money would then go back into the pot.

The success of the amateurs is one reason why officials are happy over the outcome of the first Open Wimbledon Tournament. They've been saved plenty of money by the success of amateurs over pros.

Ashe helped the Wimbledon kitty Tuesday by knocking out Tom Okker of The Netherlands 7-9, 9-7, 9-7, 6-2 in the quarter-finals. Okker ranks as an amateur and plays on his country's Davis Cup team, but was competing here for prize money with the approval of the Dutch Tennis Federation. As a losing quarter-finalist, he won only $960.

Graebner, piling up the points with his big service, hammered amateur Ray Moore of South Africa 6-2, 6-0, 9-7. Both were unseeded.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the defending champion, faced an old rival in Mrs. Lesley Turner Bowry of Australia in the women's quarter-finals.

The rest of the women's quarter-finalists lined up like this: Mrs. Margaret Smith Court, Australia vs. Judy Tegart, Australia; Nancy Richey, San Angelo, Tex., vs. Maria Bueno, Brazil; Mrs. Ann Jones, professional, Britain, vs. Francoise Durr, professional, France.

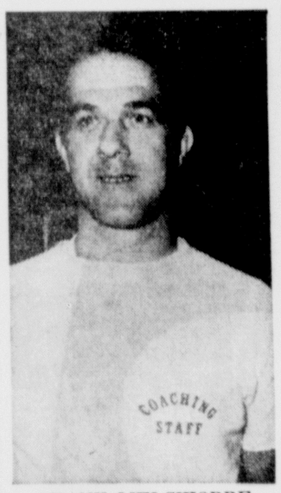
Another group of Colt League players will go to Columbiana for a July 4 doubleheader against the Columbiana Legion. They will board a bus at the Calcutta Raceway at 11:30 a.m.

The group is Rick Shepherd, George Whitaker, Rick Welsh, Rick Arnett, Gregg Brophy, Dan Kristy, Jim Booher, Jim Massey, Rick Schuck, Larry Carter, Ron Cornell, Al Talkington, John Cunningham, John Lockhart, Steve Staley and Mike Ferrello.



FRANK MELCHIORRE

Melchiorre Takes Job At St. Clairsville

Frank Melchiorre, assistant basketball coach at East Liverpool High School for the past two seasons, was named head coach at St. Clairsville High last night.

Melchiorre compiled an unbeaten record in 1966-67 in 17 games and the reserves went 10-8 last season. Prior to that he had coached two years in junior high here, with a 30-6 mark.

Melchiorre, 32, is a native of Monaca, Pa., and a graduate of Geneva College. He played basketball at Monaca High and at Geneva. He is married and has two children.

Melchiorre said he regarded the move as a step up. He noted that basketball has not been too much emphasized at St. Clairsville and thought that a rebuilding program would be needed. St. Clairsville had a losing season last year. The school, 10 miles west of Martins Ferry, is a member of the Ohio Valley Athletic Conference. In addition to acoaching, Melchiorre will teach social science.

Calcutta UP Wins Church Softball Game

Calcutta UP downed Emmanuel UP 10-7 in a Presbyterian Church softball league game Monday night at MacIntosh Field.

Robert Morris was the winning pitcher and John Boch the loser.

Sevy's Whips Littens 14-3 In Pony Game

Sevy's bombed Littens 14-3 in a Pony League game at Beaver Local last night.

Dave Kyle and Larry Parsons each had three hits, including a triple, to lead the attack. Jim Anderson had two hits and scored four times ,and Linville had a double and single. Jim Cheeks added a triple. Gary Cunningham tripled for the losers.

George Hall was the winner. Tony Williams took the loss.

In another game Burbick's whipped Woodbine's 13-1 as the teams concluded regular-season play.

NFL Players Strike Becomes More Likely

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's nothing official, but the ingredients are beginning to stack up for a strike by National Football League players.

Officially, the players are saying nothing. That's through attorney Dan Shulman, counsel for the NFL Players Association.

Unofficially, there are numerous reports of strike talk by the players.

And time is running out. Rookies are scheduled to begin reporting for practice next week. Veterans will report later. Reporting dates vary for each club. The exhibition season is less than a month away.

The player representatives and an owners' group failed to come to an agreement at their super secret meeting in Detroit last weekend.

Art Modell, NFL president and owner of the Cleveland Browns, broke the long silence with a prepared statement in Cleveland Tuesday.

"We regret exceedingly that the players have rejected the results of the very fruitful negotiations we had in Detroit on Friday and Saturday," Modell's statement said. "We think, perhaps, the players may not have fully understood our position."

In Chicago, Shulman said: "We have agreed to no comments in the press and we intend, at least for the present, to adhere to that."

Among other things, the players are seeking improved pension benefits, $500 for each exhibition game, and a guaranteed minimum salary, such as exists in baseball.

Newell Tops Hanover 15-4

Newell whipped Hanover 15-4 in a South Side Athletic Club baseball league senior division game at Newell Tuesday night.

Ron Heffner was the winner, fanning 15. He also led the attack with a double and single. Dave Jividen had two hits and Rick Knicely a triple. Larry Cox took the loss. Cox and Larry Lockhart had two hits each.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

It's Wake-Up Time On The Tube

The Bell Telephone Co. is the latest American corporation finally to wake up to the fact that all is not well with our society. Beginning in September it will forego sponsoring its series of musical TV documentaries of the past two seasons and instead do four specials produced by NBC's public affairs division on the urban crises in our country.

Hal Humphrey

Bell thus joins Xerox, which is sponsoring a series of seven "Of Black America" specials the next two months on CBS, and the Institute of Life Insurance which just sponsored the three-part "The Cities: Crisis in Black and White" also on CBS. The ABC network has started a six-part "Lime for Americans" series of documentary specials on urban problems, with no sponsors.

-:-

IT'S A FINE reaction, one can say, except that this sudden self-enlightenment on the part of networks and some sponsors seems to have come a bit late. Is it only fear that stimulates this type of TV programming now? Did riots in our cities the past three summers finally scare TV and sponsors into doing something?

As Walter Cronkite pointed out in the CBS three-part series last week, many of these urban problems have been growing for the past 25 years. Only now, however, does TV on any large scale take cogniance of them.

"Big businesses like Bell are finally waking up to how serious it is," says one spokesman. "How can they fool around with an hour of music on TV while our cities are burning?"

TO MAKE SURE it gets full network coverage on its four documentaries next season, Bell Telephone has ordered prime-time hours from NBC.

The affiliated stations on a network aren't obligated to take programs like the CBS and ABC documentaries which come on at 10 p.m., and many of them don't. Instead they substitute an old movie and sell it to a local sponsor and collect the full rate charge, rather than a percentage of the network rate.

In addition to its four documentaries (one is two hours in length), Bell also has scheduled three entertainment specials, making seven programs altogether. Last season it sponsored 13 and the year before that had 14.

THE RATINGS always had Bell near the bottom of the list with those musical documentaries, so it can do no worse this next season with urban crisis programs, and might conceivably contribute to some much-needed understanding between whites and blacks.

According to a Bell representative, that is the company's hope — that the programs will show what's wrong, then attempt to point to solutions. Bell has given the NBC public affairs division full freedom to report what it finds.

"It's enlightened self-interest motivating sponsorship of this type of TV programming," says one TV man. "Look at the stake these big corporations have in our cities."

BUT BELL and the insurance companies always have had a big stake in our urban communities. Until parts of these communities began blowing up, these companies ignored that all was not well within them, that crime and poverty and pestilence were growing.

One can ask now how many of these riots might have been averted had TV and the big corporations alerted themselves and the nation with programs five and 10 years ago like the ones they are giving us today?

TV is the greatest communications medium of all time, reaching more people simultaneously then anything before it. And when it is reflecting real life, TV is at its very best. But too often the medium has ignored any feeling of responsibility toward society, other than selling it merchandise.

Besides just putting these documentaries on the air, TV will have to bend every effort toward selling them to a public which has hardly ever been led to believe it can be actually educated by watching that tube in the living room.

One Rough Rider Attends Reunion

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP) — One of the last three living members of Teddy Roosevelt's famed Rough Riders arrives today in Las Vegas by bus for the 69th annual Rough Riders reunion.

Jesse Langond, 87, of East Rockaway, N. Y., will be the star of a parade through the center of town and the honored guest at a luncheon.

Two years ago, Langdon drove his sports car from New York to the celebration honoring the famous cavalry group.

Theodore Roosevelt himself attended the group's first reunion in Las Vegas in 1899-a year after he led the Rough Riders in the charge up San Juan Hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American War and two years before he became president.

The Rough Riders vowed to hold the annual reunion until the last man died.

Now, only three are living: Langdon, Frank C. Brito, 91, of Las Cruces, N.M., and Arthur L. Tuttle, 88, of Salinas, Calif. Brito and Tuttle attended the reunion two years ago but since have been unable to travel.

Fireball Flashes Across 4 States

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thousands of Pennsylvanians and residents of neighboring states reported sighting a fireball crossing the sky from east to west Tuesday night.

Among the spotters, according to Federal Aviation Authority officials, were a number of professional and private plane pilots who identified the glowing object as a huge meteor.

Newspapers, radio stations, police stations and airport officials all reported a deluge of calls shortly after 9:30 p. m.—the approximate time of the sightings.

Two scientists at Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania described the object as a "rather large meteor" with a highly colorful, long tail.

The U.S. weather bureau station in Harrisburg reported many sightings of "bright lights" and said other sightings were reported in Columbus, Ohio, Rochester, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md.

Old Pontoon Bridge Taken Out Of Service

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The 135-foot pontoon bridge to Terminal Island, built by the Navy as a temporary structure in 1944, was closed this week and replaced by a new $20-million bridge 200 feet high.

The old span, which rose and fell as much as 25 feet with the tide, carried hundreds of people a day and caused huge traffic jams while traffic was stopped to allow ships to pass. Seven motorists have drowned in the channel since 1944.

The pontoon bridge will be sold to the highest bidder by the city of Long Beach.

Angry Raccoon Bites Woman, Boy And Dog

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — Vivian Calvert stepped into her garage Tuesday, heard odd noises, and was bitten three times on the arm by a raccoon.

Her son Steven, 23, ran to help her and was bitten on the arm, too. The family collie also was bitten.

A police officer finally caught the raccoon and turned it over to the pound. The Calverts were treated at a hospital and released.

Writer Says Scorpion Hit Russian Sub

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The military writer for the Norfolk Ledger-Star says an American submarine was damaged severely several months ago in an underwater collision with a Russian submarine.

Jack Kestner said Tuesday the report, unconfirmed by the Navy, adds to speculation the missing nuclear attack submarine Scorpion might have tangled with one or more Russian subs on a "classified mission" during her ill-fated trip home from the Mediterranean. The Scorpion has been missing more than a month.

Kestner quoted "usually reliable sources" in giving his account of the collision. The story did not name either submarine.

Kestner said the American sub spent two months at Rota, Spain, undergoing repairs. Nothing was reported of the effect of the collision on the Soviet sub.

In Washington, the Navy said, "as in the past, the Navy will not comment on classified operations of its deployed nuclear submarines."

Kestner said Soviet subs have been lying in wait off the overseas ports of U.S. Polaris submarines and attempting to follow them on their 60-day underwater patrols.

Because the position of the atomic missile-bearing subs is vital to this country's defense, Kestner said, U.S. nuclear attack subs have been given assignments aimed at "wiping off" the Soviet pursuit subs.

"The 'wiping off' assignment can get rough, sometimes amounting to what one officer describes as 'underwater chicken,' with the American and Russian subs set on a collision course, and the 'chicken' turning aside at the last moment," Kestner said.

"Presumably this is what happened when the unidentified American sub collided with the Russian."

Whether the Scorpion was the sub in question can only be conjecture, Kestner said.

Thief Props Up Auto While Stealing Wheel

A conscientious thief removed the right rear wheel and tire from a Klondyke area man's auto Tuesday night or early today, but left the car propped up with a two-foot length of log underneath the fender, the motorist told police.

Jack Snyder of 2003 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. said the wheel was taken from his 1964 model car while it was parked at his home between 11 p. m. Tuesday and 5 a. m. today. The thief also drained 10 gallons of gasoline from the tank, he said.

Meanwhile, Frank Hancock of 203 Union St. told officers Tuesday afternoon an 8-mm. movie projector valued at $167 was stolen from his home sometime in the preceding four months.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

It's Wake-Up Time On The Tube

The Bell Telephone Co. is the latest American corporation finally to wake up to the fact that all is not well with our society. Beginning in September it will forego sponsoring its series of musical TV documentaries of the past two seasons and instead do four specials produced by NBC's public affairs division on the urban crises in our country.

Hal Humphrey

Bell thus joins Xerox, which is sponsoring a series of seven "Of Black America" specials the next two months on CBS, and the Institute of Life Insurance which just sponsored the three-part "The Cities: Crisis in Black and White" also on CBS. The ABC network has started a six-part "Lime for Americans" series of documentary specials on urban problems, with no sponsors.

-:-

IT'S A FINE reaction, one can say, except that this sudden self-enlightenment on the part of networks and some sponsors seems to have come a bit late. Is it only fear that stimulates this type of TV programming now? Did riots in our cities the past three summers finally scare TV and sponsors into doing something?

As Walter Cronkite pointed out in the CBS three-part series last week, many of these urban problems have been growing for the past 25 years. Only now, however, does TV on any large scale take cogniance of them.

"Big businesses like Bell are finally waking up to how serious it is," says one spokesman. "How can they fool around with an hour of music on TV while our cities are burning?"

TO MAKE SURE it gets full network coverage on its four documentaries next season, Bell Telephone has ordered prime-time hours from NBC.

The affiliated stations on a network aren't obligated to take programs like the CBS and ABC documentaries which come on at 10 p.m., and many of them don't. Instead they substitute an old movie and sell it to a local sponsor and collect the full rate charge, rather than a percentage of the network rate.

In addition to its four documentaries (one is two hours in length), Bell also has scheduled three entertainment specials, making seven programs altogether. Last season it sponsored 13 and the year before that had 14.

THE RATINGS always had Bell near the bottom of the list with those musical documentaries, so it can do no worse this next season with urban crisis programs, and might conceivably contribute to some much-needed understanding between whites and blacks.

According to a Bell representative, that is the company's hope — that the programs will show what's wrong, then attempt to point to solutions. Bell has given the NBC public affairs division full freedom to report what it finds.

"It's enlightened self-interest motivating sponsorship of this type of TV programming," says one TV man. "Look at the stake these big corporations have in our cities."

BUT BELL and the insurance companies always have had a big stake in our urban communities. Until parts of these communities began blowing up, these companies ignored that all was not well within them, that crime and poverty and pestilence were growing.

One can ask now how many of these riots might have been averted had TV and the big corporations alerted themselves and the nation with programs five and 10 years ago like the ones they are giving us today?

TV is the greatest communications medium of all time, reaching more people simultaneously then anything before it. And when it is reflecting real life, TV is at its very best. But too often the medium has ignored any feeling of responsibility toward society, other than selling it merchandise.

Besides just putting these documentaries on the air, TV will have to bend every effort toward selling them to a public which has hardly ever been led to believe it can be actually educated by watching that tube in the living room.

One Rough Rider Attends Reunion

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP) — One of the last three living members of Teddy Roosevelt's famed Rough Riders arrives today in Las Vegas by bus for the 69th annual Rough Riders reunion.

Jesse Langond, 87, of East Rockaway, N. Y., will be the star of a parade through the center of town and the honored guest at a luncheon.

Two years ago, Langdon drove his sports car from New York to the celebration honoring the famous cavalry group.

Theodore Roosevelt himself attended the group's first reunion in Las Vegas in 1899-a year after he led the Rough Riders in the charge up San Juan Hill in Cuba during the Spanish-American War and two years before he became president.

The Rough Riders vowed to hold the annual reunion until the last man died.

Now, only three are living: Langdon, Frank C. Brito, 91, of Las Cruces, N.M., and Arthur L. Tuttle, 88, of Salinas, Calif. Brito and Tuttle attended the reunion two years ago but since have been unable to travel.

Fireball Flashes Across 4 States

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thousands of Pennsylvanians and residents of neighboring states reported sighting a fireball crossing the sky from east to west Tuesday night.

Among the spotters, according to Federal Aviation Authority officials, were a number of professional and private plane pilots who identified the glowing object as a huge meteor.

Newspapers, radio stations, police stations and airport officials all reported a deluge of calls shortly after 9:30 p. m.—the approximate time of the sightings.

Two scientists at Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania described the object as a "rather large meteor" with a highly colorful, long tail.

The U.S. weather bureau station in Harrisburg reported many sightings of "bright lights" and said other sightings were reported in Columbus, Ohio, Rochester, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md.

Old Pontoon Bridge Taken Out Of Service

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The 135-foot pontoon bridge to Terminal Island, built by the Navy as a temporary structure in 1944, was closed this week and replaced by a new $20-million bridge 200 feet high.

The old span, which rose and fell as much as 25 feet with the tide, carried hundreds of people a day and caused huge traffic jams while traffic was stopped to allow ships to pass. Seven motorists have drowned in the channel since 1944.

The pontoon bridge will be sold to the highest bidder by the city of Long Beach.

Angry Raccoon Bites Woman, Boy And Dog

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — Vivian Calvert stepped into her garage Tuesday, heard odd noises, and was bitten three times on the arm by a raccoon.

Her son Steven, 23, ran to help her and was bitten on the arm, too. The family collie also was bitten.

A police officer finally caught the raccoon and turned it over to the pound. The Calverts were treated at a hospital and released.

Writer Says Scorpion Hit Russian Sub

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The military writer for the Norfolk Ledger-Star says an American submarine was damaged severely several months ago in an underwater collision with a Russian submarine.

Jack Kestner said Tuesday the report, unconfirmed by the Navy, adds to speculation the missing nuclear attack submarine Scorpion might have tangled with one or more Russian subs on a "classified mission" during her ill-fated trip home from the Mediterranean. The Scorpion has been missing more than a month.

Kestner quoted "usually reliable sources" in giving his account of the collision. The story did not name either submarine.

Kestner said the American sub spent two months at Rota, Spain, undergoing repairs. Nothing was reported of the effect of the collision on the Soviet sub.

In Washington, the Navy said, "as in the past, the Navy will not comment on classified operations of its deployed nuclear submarines."

Kestner said Soviet subs have been lying in wait off the overseas ports of U.S. Polaris submarines and attempting to follow them on their 60-day underwater patrols.

Because the position of the atomic missile-bearing subs is vital to this country's defense, Kestner said, U.S. nuclear attack subs have been given assignments aimed at "wiping off" the Soviet pursuit subs.

"The 'wiping off' assignment can get rough, sometimes amounting to what one officer describes as 'underwater chicken,' with the American and Russian subs set on a collision course, and the 'chicken' turning aside at the last moment," Kestner said.

"Presumably this is what happened when the unidentified American sub collided with the Russian."

Thief Props Up Auto While Stealing Wheel

A conscientious thief removed the right rear wheel and tire from a Klondyke area man's auto Tuesday night or early today, but left the car propped up with a two-foot length of log underneath the fender, the motorist told police.

Jack Snyder of 2003 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. said the wheel was taken from his 1964 model car while it was parked at his home between 11 p. m. Tuesday and 5 a. m. today. The thief also drained 10 gallons of gasoline from the tank, he said.

Meanwhile, Frank Hancock of 203 Union St. told officers Tuesday afternoon an 8-mm. movie projector valued at $167 was stolen from his home sometime in the preceding four months.

Junior Editors Quiz on EARTH'S FORMATION

QUESTION: How was the earth formed?

* * * *

ANSWER: The story of the creation is told with great beauty and dignity in the first chapters of the Bible. Many people accept the Bible story. Others feel that scientific discoveries are in conflict; still others find they can accept scientific findings and the words of the Bible as well. We illustrate a theory about the origin of the solar system now accepted by many scientists. This starts with a nebula, or large mass of gas and dust, swirling around in space (1). The central part of this may have collected together to form the sun (2). Meanwhile, as it revolved, the nebula flattened out; sections of it began spinning like whirlpools (2). Gas and dust collecting at the centers of the whirlpools formed the planets (3). The gaseous centers of these turned into liquid balls, which cooled slowly. In the case of the earth, a hard crust finally formed. Because of great internal pressure, the matter of the sun became so hot that it started to blaze by atomic fusion (4) giving us the light and heat we need to maintain life on our home planet.

(Debbie Andresen of Elkhart, Ind., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, July 3, the 185th day of 1968. There are 181 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, Algeria became independent after 132 years of French rule.

On this date:

In 1941, Joseph Stalin asked the Russian people to carry out a scorched earth policy to thwart German invaders in World War II.

In 1950, U.S. and North Korean troops clashed for the first time in the Korean War.

Ten years ago — U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said no evidence had been found to back up Lebanon's charge of mass infiltration from the United Arab Republic.

Five years ago — The United States said it was willing to accept a limited ban on nuclear tests but was dubious about a Soviet proposal to link the ban with an East-West nonaggression pact.

One year ago — North Vietnamese forces hammered a U.S. Marine base just below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.
